10 Dead, 200 Hurt During Gun Fights

By LUIS NOLI
PANAMA (AP)—New gun-fighting broke out today between U.S. troops and Panamanians on the border of the U.S. Canal Zone, adding more casualties to a toll of 10 dead and more than 200 wounded.

Among the dead were three U.S. soldiers. Thirty-four U.S. soldiers were wounded in the first fighting Thursday night. There were 190 Panamanian casualties including seven dead.

Panama suspended relations with the United States and accused it of aggression. The fighting broke out Thursday night when Panamanian students tried to plant their nation's flag in the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone. They acted after U.S. students raised the American flag in defiance of American officials.

In Washington the Organization of American States called an emergency meeting of its council to consider the Panama crisis.

President Johnson was being closely briefed on events. He met with his top policy advisers then telephoned Panama's President Roberto Chiari this morning.

Panama was also carrying its case to the United Nations. Stopping off in Miami en route to New York, Aquilino Boyd, Panama's ambassador to the United Nations, accused the U.S. Army of opening fire on defenseless Panamanians.

The gunfire began to crackle again at 9 a.m. on the Pacific side of the canal.

Armed Panamanians gathered at the Presidential Palace in Panama City, less than 50 yards from the border with the Canal Zone city of Balboa.

This was where most of the fatalities occurred Thursday night.

The violence grew out of a quarrel between U.S. residents of the Canal Zone and Panamanians over the display of U.S. and Panama flags. Under U.S.-Panama agreement details had been worked out for joint display of the banners at selected sites.

U.S. troops were called in and Army rule proclaimed throughout the zone.

Panama's government accused the United States of aggression and sent its case to international forums after rioting broke out when Panamanian demonstrators tried to plant their national flag in the Canal Zone.

The Panamanian students moved in after U.S. students in the zone raised the American flag in defiance of orders from U.S. zone officials.

Panama's ambassador to the United Nations, Aquilino Boyd, was en route to U.N. headquarters to file the charges of aggression with the U.N. Security Council.

President Roberto Chiari of Panama demanded that the Organization of American States launch an immediate investigation.

At the Pentagon in Washington, a Defense Department spokesman said there are no plans to send troop reinforcements into the Canal Zone.

About 10,000 Army troops plus a small number of Air Force, Navy and Marine personnel, are stationed there customarily.

The U.S. Army said its casualties occurred in the vicinity of the Tivoli guest house in the Canal Zone, a target of persistent sniper fire from Panamanians.

Army officials stressed the point that none of its forces entered Panama territory during three to four hours of severe exchange of gunfire.

Traffic through the canal was not affected.

In Washington, President Johnson was informed of the crisis but the White House had no immediate comment.

The Defense Department blamed the rioting on Panamanian mobs invading the Canal Zone. A department statement based on a military report from the scene said U.S. troops were called out after Canal Zone po-

Congress Okay Seen Likely for Income Tax Cut

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's plea for enactment of a one-step reduction in the income tax withholding rate appears likely to win congressional approval.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., a senior member of the finance committee now considering the $11-billion tax cut bill, told a reporter he thought the request would easily command the needed votes.

And Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, who will head his branch's conferees on the measure, indicated in a separate interview that he was willing to support it.

As the bill passed the House and now stands, it provides for a cut in the present 18 per cent withholding rate to 15 per cent this year, with a new permanent level of 14 per cent to start in 1965.

Johnson wants a one-step drop to 14 per cent. The administration has advanced two major arguments:

An immediate, 4 percentage point cut would pump into the economy an additional $800 million of purchasing power a month, while a reduction to 15 per cent for the rest of this year would produce only $600 million.

Since the drop in withholding probably cannot take effect before April, an 18 per cent rate for the first months of the year, coupled with a 14 per cent rate for the rest of the year, would balance out to about 15 per cent for 1964—the House's original plan.

If Johnson's argument carries a married man with wages of $120 a week who claims exemptions for himself, his wife and two children would get a take-

Soviets Seek U.S. Machinery So as Not To Hamper Arms Production, CIA Says

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Central Intelligence Agency says the Kremlin wants to buy large amounts of Western chemical machinery on long-term credit so as not to hamper Soviet arms production.

CIA's conclusions about the Soviet Union's economic woes were issued Thursday in CIA's first general press briefing since the secret agency was set up after World War II.

The United States has been trying to persuade its Allies, so far unsuccessfully, to bar long term credit on Red purchases. But a CIA spokesman denied trying to influence policy by airing the agency's views publicly. He said CIA's aim was to make public information gathered by its experts on a subject where the customary secrecy label could be removed without harm, and that CIA may give out further data later. It was understood President Johnson approved the action.

According to CIA's analysis, the Soviet economy has run into such deep trouble that Premier Khrushchev can achieve his chemical industry expansion goals only by paring other programs or through long term credits from the West.

Search for Nine Men in Pacific Area Given Up

HONOLULU (AP)—Disheartened searchers finally have given up the hunt for nine men aboard an Air Force plane that has been added to the list of aircraft that have vanished in the Pacific.

One of the men was M. Sgt. Herbert M. O'Malley, the father of 14 children, who didn't have to make the flight. But his unit at Hill Air Force Base, Utah, home of the plane, was short of men, so he put off his retirement and went along.

The C124 Globemaster cargo plane was on a flight from Wake Island to Honolulu when it disappeared last Thursday.

Barry and Rocky Both Pleased With Reception

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is very pleased with his reception and Sen. Barry Goldwater says "I think we have it made."

That was the reaction of the two avowed candidates for the Republican presidential nomination after campaign forays into New Hampshire, site of the nation's first preferential primary, March 10.

"Things are going about the way I expected them to," said Rockefeller Thursday night during a short visit to Manchester for a non-political speech. He campaigned in the state last week.

"I'm convinced there's more enthusiasm now than before I made my announcement," Goldwater told newsmen as he left for Washington after three days of stumping the state. The Arizona senator added that the crowds he drew were "surprising and very encouraging."

Asked for comment on Goldwater's assessment, Rockefeller, governor of New York, told newsmen: "That's not the way I heard it."

The governor's press secretary, Robert McManus, expanded on the remark, saying Rockefeller "is very pleased with the way the New Hampshire campaign is going. He realizes he's still the underdog here but we still think we will win it."

Both Goldwater and Rockefeller went along streets, introducing themselves to passersby. (Turn to Page 4, Column 6)

More Than 400 Persons Board Stock Show Train

More than 400 persons from Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak Region left the Santa Fe Depot at 9:30 a.m. today aboard the annual Stock Show Train. The train is sponsored by the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce.

The train was due to arrive in Denver at 11:20 a.m. and will leave there at 5:30 p.m., arriving in Colorado Springs at 7:15 p.m.

A small number of the riders waited until this morning to see how the weather would be before committing themselves for the trip. Chamber officials were able, however, to take care of them.

Included in the passengers are business and civic leaders, local government officials and newspaper, radio and television personalities.

The first stock show train to run from Colorado Springs to Denver for the opening day of the National Western Stock Show was organized in 1954. At that time the National Cattlemen's Association was holding its convention in Colorado Springs and many of its members were interested in attending the show but were unable to do so because of conflicting meetings.

Don Holmes, Clay Banta and Mike Edwards cooperated with the cattlemen's association and chartered a train to take the entire group to Denver and back. Approximately 800 persons made that first trip.

The train was such a success that it was decided to make the excursion an annual event, open to anyone interested in attending. Now in its 11th year, only one trip out has been plagued by bad weather.

This year's trip includes a tour of the lights at the Denver Civic Center. Shuttle buses will carry passengers to and from the stock show grounds.

National Western Stock Show Launched in Denver

DENVER (AP)—The nine-day National Western Stock Show opened today with judging in several classes of livestock, a judging contest for college students, and two performances of the rodeo and horse show on the schedule.

Officials said tickets were selling fast despite the prediction of cold and snow — "Stock show weather," as residents refer to it.

Today's first event was judging of junior show steers in groups of three and groups of five. This was followed on the schedule by the placing of 4-H catch-it steers.

Other first-day events: Judging of the seed show, including crops grown in all parts of Colorado; judging of the wool show; grading and judging of junior show steers and the collegiate carload judging contest. The opening rodeo and horse show and the junior beef show-manship elimination contest are on the afternoon schedule, and a second rodeo and horse show performance will be held at 8 p.m.

In a preliminary event Thursday night, high money in first-round cutting horse competition was divided between owners of two horses. The horses are Maid O' Cotton, owned by Ray W. Anderson of Farmington, Minn., and Dodger MacCole, belonging to William Cown and C.R. Frederick of Novato, Calif. The winning entries earned $300 each.

Second place was a tie between Jill's Lady, owned by Leroy Ashcraft of Mesquite, Tex., and Moki Signat, owned by Floyd E. Orr Jr. of Pueblo, Colo.

Four Americans Die in Argentina Plane Disaster

ZARATE, Argentina (AP)—Four Americans were among 28 persons killed Thursday in the crash of a twin-engine Argentine airliner near this Parana River port 55 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

Three survivors were injured seriously.

The Americans were Mrs. Jack Burton Ryan, 51, of Albuquerque, N.M.; her mother-in-law, Mrs. Thelma Ryan, 64, of Del Rio, Calif.; Mary Bruce, 45, Sunnyvale, Calif.; and Thomas Jewell, 48, Elbert, Colo.

The DC3, operated by Aerotransportes Litoral Argentino, was flying from Santa Fe, 220 miles northwest of Buenos Aires to the capital.

Tobacco May Be Further Indicted By Health Probe

By W. JONES MACFARLAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government report on smoking and health to be made public Saturday is expected to point an accusing finger at cigarettes as a health hazard.

But, unlike a 1959 report which dealt only with smoking and lung cancer, the new report prepared by a special committee of 10 nongovernment scientists will deal with all the effects of smoking on human health—on the lungs, heart, and circulatory system.

The conclusions will be based on scientific findings which in the main have been publicized previously.

Surgeon General Luther L. Terry will hold a news conference to state the Public Health Service's position on the report. (Turn to Page 4, Column 5)

Drive Against Youth Smoking Launched in U.S.

By CHARLES L. WEST

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Jerome Cavanagh of Detroit, a 3½-pack-a-day smoker, was in his bedroom Tuesday, listening to a news broadcast about the possible link between cigarettes and cancer.

"I looked at the cigarettes on the bedside table and said, 'Why not have a little character?' I haven't had a cigarette since," he said.

Thus one more American was convinced that smoking is not worth the statistically indicated risk to health, a risk the American Tobacco Institute insists never has been proved.

A report from the U.S. surgeon general, scheduled for release Saturday, is expected to further indict tobacco.

Manned Orbiting Platform May Be Used for Defense

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The year is 1975. Several U.S. spacecrafts the size of house trailers circle the globe in an orbital pattern which keeps the entire earth under constant surveillance.

Each has a four-man crew. Two fly the craft and monitor instruments while the other two rest.

Suddenly, the captain of one ship spots scores of missiles blasting from a hostile country. He flashes an alert to the other ships. Those within range aim detection equipment at the missiles and determine within seconds that they are headed for the United States.

The spacecrafts, maneuvering at 18,000 miles an hour, launch deadly anti-missile rockets at the enemy projectiles, destroying most before they've expanded their booster fuel. Other ships in the American patrol obliterate many of the warheads during the midcourse portion of their journey. And U.S. ground defenses wipe out many more.

Special attack spacecraft in the United States orbiting force unleash nuclear weapons on the enemy nation.

Can manned satellites effectively carry out military missions of this type? The Air Force long has said yes and has struggled for a military role in space. Last month the service won its argument and was assigned the multimillion-dollar task of developing a manned orbiting laboratory — known as MOL — to learn just what the military can do while orbiting 150 to 300 miles above the earth—the area considered vital for war operations.

As envisioned, the early MOLs will consist of a modified version of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's two-man Gemini capsule attached to a huge canister 25 feet long and 10 feet in diameter.

The Titan 3, now under development, will be the booster rocket. During the launching phase, the two-to-four-man astronaut teams will ride in the Gemini vehicle. Once orbit is achieved,

Tue Mail Delay Noted This Year in Florence

ORCHID-TYPE OVERALLS

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York specialty store offers Christmas shoppers ladies' mink overalls priced at a "modest $2.00." Ads suggest they are perfect for doing housework—apparently for the housewife who has everything except a maid—or for doing exercises in. They would also be just the thing for gardening, especially if you were raising orchids.

Postmaster J. Walter Martin of Florence, in recapping the hectic pre-Christmas mailing season, noted this week that local residents generally mailed cards and packages later during the closing days of 1963. Postal cancellations were down in 1963 over 1962 since the Penrose post office dispatched mail during 1963 which was normally dispatched through the Florence post office. Total cancellations, meter and permits were 73,670 in 1963 as compared to 74,724 in 1962. Martin stated. There were 171 pouches of letters and Christmas cards dispatched from the Florence post office in 1963 as compared to 183 for the same period in 1962. While 344 sacks of parcel post mail was dispatched in 1963 compared to 576 in 1962. Perishable parcels dispatched totaled 41 in 1963 while in 1962 the total was 34. Cash receipts, not including the period to deliver parcel post packages.

The Florence office delivered 2,124 parcels in the city in 1963 compared to 2,236 in 1962. The increase in postal receipts was due primarily to the hike in postage rates.

Carson to Supply War Articles For Symposium

Grim reminders of World War II's dark days will play a role in a War Symposium conducted by the ROTC department at Colorado College Sunday thru Jan. 18.

Twenty-five articles of war from Ft. Carson's Army Museum, including a Hitler propaganda book, Nazi hand grenades, Japanese flags, knee mortars and a Samurai sword will be silent witnesses as 75 representatives from across the United States meet to discuss causes, conduct and lasting consequences of Man's second worldwide conflict 23 years ago.

Ft. Carson maintains an extensive permanent display of military equipment dating back to the year 1600, and including weapons and uniforms from 22 nations. The museum is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday thru Sunday, and by special appointment for group tours.

Goldwater May Not Enter Ohio Primary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater's strategy for winning the Republican presidential nomination apparently does not include entering Ohio's May 5 primary.

Goldwater has yet to state publicly that he has decided against the Ohio primary, in which Gov. James A. Rhodes will be a favorite son candidate.

But he was quoted Thursday night by the Ohioans for Goldwater as saying he will not enter.

"I will not run in the Ohio primary," the Arizona senator was quoted as saying by Dr. N. B. Livingston Jr. of Columbus, chairman of the Goldwater group. "I have faith in the process of delegate selection in Ohio."

Livingston said Goldwater also asked the Ohio group not to carry through with plans to line up national convention support in certain Ohio districts.

Goldwater plans to speak at a luncheon here Saturday.

BHUBANESWAR, India (AP) Prime Minister Nehru is making steady progress and had a restful night, a medical bulletin said today.

His daughter, Indira Gandhi, said Nehru is relaxing and reading. He was confined to bed Tuesday because of high blood pressure and weakness but was allowed up to have tea on the veranda of his quarters Thursday.

Informed sources said Nehru probably will fly back to New Delhi Saturday.

Robert Kennedy To Stay on as Attorney General

EDITOR'S NOTE

Widespread interest has centered on the future of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. In this interview he looks ahead, compares the civil rights picture to that of a year ago and reflects on what he considers John F. Kennedy's greatest contribution to the nation and the world.

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy says he will stay on as attorney general and do whatever President Johnson and the Democratic party ask him in the presidential campaign.

Beyond that, the future of the 38-year-old brother of slain President John F. Kennedy remains uncharted.

"I'll certainly stay on through the election," he said in an interview. "I don't know what I'm going to do when that's over." Kennedy deftly engineered his brother's successful campaign in 1960. Would he do as much for Johnson, who fought John Kennedy for the Democratic nomination that year?

"I'll be available to work in the campaign," he replied instantly. "Nobody's said anything to me about it yet, but I'll do whatever anybody — the President or the Democratic National Committee — feels will be helpful."

Kennedy, until today, had made no statements for publication about his plans since an assassin took his brother's life in Dallas Nov. 22.

He looks tanned, healthy and more relaxed than he has since that fateful day. He has had time to rest, ski, be with his family and collect his thoughts.

The man who settled into the high-backed red leather chair in the fifth-floor chambers of the Justice Department had a quiet, subdued manner. But he was quick to smile, ready to laugh at a quip as he answered questions.

He was noncommittal when asked about a recent Associated Press survey which showed him second favorite — behind Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota — for the vice presidential nomination.

"My one interest now is being attorney general," he said. However, he was obviously pleased that the Democratic County chairmen canvassed in the poll thought so well of him.

He was more outgoing about recent reports that President Johnson has his eye on Kennedy's brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director, for the vice presidential slot. "He's a very able figure,"

Kennedy said of Shriver. "He turned in one of the outstanding jobs of President Kennedy's administration in directing the Peace Corps. He would certainly be qualified for the job."

And what if Johnson should ask Kennedy to accept the vice presidential nomination?

"Well, I'll just have to go back to what I said before," the youthful attorney general insisted calmly. "I don't know what I'll do after I leave here."

He thought a moment, then turned over, out loud, some of the avenues he has considered since his life was so dramatically reshaped seven weeks ago.

"I could go teach, I could run for office in Massachusetts. Or I could go into business or private life."

He was asked his opinion of recent criticism of the proposed $30-million John F. Kennedy Memorial Cultural Center in Washington.

Did he think—? "Do I think we ought to wait 57 years? I think it would have been nice if the Lincoln Memorial had gone up 57 years earlier. This is something President Kennedy worked hard for. But while I certainly would like to see it named after him, most of all I'm anxious that we have such a facility. We're about the only major capital in the world that doesn't. And I don't think things would be helped any by waiting 57 years."

Would he compare the national civil rights picture today to that of a year ago?

"I think there's more of a feeling now in the country that something needs to be done."

There's a greater awareness that people are being treated unjustly. A year ago, people were not thinking about it so much; they were pushing it to the backs of their minds.

"My feeling is that there still is a great problem in the South — But I think many of the more urgent problems are in the North, where they haven't been recognized yet."

Kennedy — already the author of two books — was asked if he plans to write one about his late brother.

"Not just now," he said. "Sometime, maybe, but not now."

What does he consider his brother's greatest contribution to the country and the world during his presidency?

Robert Kennedy, who was closer to John F. Kennedy than any other man, reflected for several moments, staring at the tips of his fingers before him.

Then he gave his answer, firmly and decisively: "He restored the confidence of the people in themselves and in their energy and their ability and their ideals and their future — particularly, perhaps, the younger people."

"He equally restored that some confidence in people in other countries in the United States and its people."

"And that's why, you see, there was such a strong reaction to his death in the United States and abroad — and even behind the iron curtain."

"What would you charge to reduce this report card to the size of a postage stamp?"

By DICK MOORE

With the change from the old year to the new, there are two hunting seasons still open to Colorado nimrods, geese on the eastern slope and rabbits statewide.

Geese in the central flyway, which is that part of Colorado east of the Continental Divide, including North Park and the San Luis Valley, may be hunted until Jan. 15.

Rabbits may be taken statewide until Feb. 29.

Hunters are reminded that all rules, regulations, closures and methods of taking that were in force in 1963 continue in force in 1964 until changed by the Game, Fish and Parks Commission or Federal Government.

Also, those who will be hunting these species are reminded that with the close of 1963, the old hunting licenses expired and a new 1964 license is now required. Goose hunters are advised to keep their old license with the duck stamp it along with the new license so that both the stamp and the license will be available to show any inquiring game warden.

Ask any hunter. With a good sporting firearm, he stands a fair chance of bringing home some delectable game. But root him on his way with a skilled setter padding alongside, and the odds will jump tremendously in his favor.

Experts say that the setter strain is America's oldest gun dog, with some vehemently maintaining that it is also the country's favorite.

The setter (known in England since the 16th century) is a fair sized dog and its characteristics have long suggested to the sports world a blood, relationship to the spaniel. (The spaniel is believed to be the earliest type of "sporting dog," originating from the 14th century Spain.)

Some old timers referred to the setter as "a spaniel improved," and some have even suggested—without substantiation—that somewhere along the line a pointer was introduced.

Setters average about 60 pounds and stand about 24 inches high; females, slightly less, are shorter than the males.

There are three well known varieties. The English setter has a beautiful, silky coat and its legs and tail have a feathery appearance. Most commonly, the dogs are sportily colored with combinations of tan, black, rust and yellow on a predominantly white coat. (Some breeders strive for more white in the coat because this enables the hunter to see his dog more readily as it flushes game from heavy brush.)

The Irish setter has a golden chestnut or reddish coat that sets off its white throat, chest and paws.

The third is the Gordon setter, which sports a coal-black, glossy coat relieved with touches of tan.

It is almost impossible to find a past or present owner of a setter who has been unhappy with his choice. These beautiful, companionable animals have a great deal of intelligence and are widely acclaimed for their wonderful disposition.

A setter wants and needs exercise and it begs for its master's affection and attention. Some, like the English setters, very often become one-man dogs.

The owners in this last category are easily recognizable, it is rumored. The buttons on their shirts keep popping.

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW
Just before the molting period, ducks and geese fly to bodies of water where they will be safe from land enemies. The reason is the fact that they molt their primary feathers all at one time and for a short period cannot fly.

The chimpanzee has terrific strength, equal to that of several men. In captivity, it seldom lives longer than 15 years.

Frogs are able to sing under water because they normally sing with their mouths and nostrils closed.

The tongue of the gecko lizard is so long that the reptile can use it to wash its eyes.

The common garden snail has 14,175 teeth. These are located on the snail's tongue in 135 rows, each row containing 105 teeth.

Vultures are health protectors in warm lands where they eat carion, being guided to their food not by smell, but by sight. Its amazing vision is an important factor in the vulture's longevity.

Civil Rights Bill Is Launched on Hazardous Trip

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The civil rights bill President Johnson says must be passed this year renews its perilous journey through Congress today after being stalled for months.

It goes before the House Rules Committee, where more than a score of hostile witnesses are expected to take their best shots at it before the bill is cleared for floor action.

The rules committee approval is needed before the measure can be sent to the full House under customary procedures.

A strong bipartisan majority on the committee favors the bill but chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., is the leader of the opposition and will probably keep the hearings running for at least two weeks. Thirty witnesses, nearly all Southerners, have asked to testify.

The bill's backers were heartened by Johnson's strong endorsement of the measure in his State of the Union Message to Congress Wednesday.

They were also pleased that Johnson called for passage of the bill as it now stands. There are widespread fears among civil rights groups that the administration will agree to weaken the bill to get it past a Senate filibuster.

The rules committee hearings mark the first action taken on civil rights legislation since President John F. Kennedy's assassination. The House Judiciary Committee reported the bill on Nov. 20, two days before Kennedy was killed.

Congress Okay Seen Likely for Income Tax Cut

home pay increase of $2.80 a week. While $12.80 is now withheld for income tax, the figure would be reduced to $10 under a 14 per cent withholding rate.

The Senate committee continues its work on the bill today, with administration supporters hoping the fast pace of the last two days can be maintained.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., said Thursday: "I think we're really moving now—we've covered more than 60 pages" of the 310-page bill.

Johnson told a citizens committee plugging for the tax bill Thursday that he wants the measure passed by the Senate before that body gets tangled up in a filibuster over civil rights.

Every hour of delay on the tax measure "can keep many jobs away from many people for many weeks," the President declared.

The committee voted 9 to 8 Thursday not to strike from the bill a provision to repeal the 4 per cent credit on stock dividend income. Administration forces had feared the provision, calculated to bring in $300-million a year in additional revenue, might be struck.

However, the committee then handed the administration a defeat by knocking out the biggest single revenue-gaining item in the bill—a section which would deny state gasoline taxes and auto tag fees as deductions on income tax returns. This had been estimated to yield an additional $300-million a year. The vote was 9 to 6.

The senators also voted 10 to 7 to delete a provision requiring an employee to pay tax on the cost of group term life insurance provided for him by his company to the extent the protection exceeds $30,000.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., who made the proposal, said the provision could work to the disadvantage of rank-and-file employees by discouraging their firms from taking out or continuing such insurance.

Youth Held After Fight At Junior High

A 17-year old youth who was arrested Thursday afternoon for assaulting another youth refused to be photographed or fingerprinted at police headquarters and after using obscene language to police officers, was sent to the County Jail.

The youth, who assaulted Steven Mark Rindahl, 14, of 1909 Trent St., is a student at North Junior High School. He admitted to police that he walked up to Rindahl during the lunch hour Thursday and hit him in the face. After he had knocked Rindahl down, he started kicking him in the face.

Rindahl was treated at the Ent AFB Dispensary for bruises and a cut on his ear. Doctors said that although Rindahl's lips were extremely swollen, he had not lost any teeth in the beating which took place at Palmer Park and Union Boulevards.

The case has been turned over to juvenile court.

U.S. Troops Battle Panama Rioters

lice failed to quell the rioters. Panamanian Ambassador Augusto Rango hurriedly left Washington for home, but there was no indication Panama would recall other diplomatic personnel for a complete break in relations.

The government said 145 persons were injured in Panama City and another 45 in Colon, at the Caribbean entrance to the canal. Ten were reported in critical condition.

One newspaper said all the dead were 20 or younger. The demonstrators attacked U.S. property in Panama City and Colon, causing thousands of dollars in damage.

Fires were set at the U.S. information Agency building, the offices of Pan American and Braniff Airways, and tire recapping plants of the Goodyear and Firestone companies.

The U.S.I.A. building was described as a total loss.

Demonstrators also stoned the Chase Manhattan and National City Bank buildings and attempted to plant a flag on the grounds of the U.S. Embassy.

The situation remained tense in Panama today, although the fighting subsided after midnight. Panamanians observed a day of national mourning.

Gen. Andrew P. O'Meara, commander in chief of the U.S. Southern Command with headquarters in the zone, ordered an investigation into the disorders.

O'Meara, attempting to prevent further incidents, ordered all Canal Zone residents not engaged in official duties to remain in their homes.

Canal Zone schools were ordered closed for the day. Included was Balboa High School, where the trouble began Thursday afternoon.

Largely attended by the children of U.S. personnel in the Canal Zone, students at the U.S.-operated school have been flying an American flag in front of the building. They have defied a recent order requiring joint display of American and Panamanian flags at various sites in the zone and no flags at all outside the schools.

The flag order is part of an agreement initiated by Panama and the United States in January, 1963, recognizing Panama's titular sovereignty over the Canal Zone, a 50-square-mile strip dividing this country of more than one million persons.

Angered by the solitary presence of the Stars and Stripes at the public building, a group of Panamanian students entered the Canal Zone and raised their country's banner. A fight broke out between the Panamanian and U.S. students.

In the melee, the Panamanian students said their flag was either torn or trampled. When the word circulated that the Panamanian flag had been "defiled," tempers rose and the rioting followed.

The sheriff's department said this morning that a man who is a suspect in a bomb throwing incident Thursday night is being questioned.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry, a military-type bomb was thrown at the home of Mrs. Bonnie Healey, 2711 E. Monument St., shattering two windows and damaging a door.

Mrs. Healey told the officer that she was watching television with her three daughters and son-in-law when they heard an object hit the side of the house.

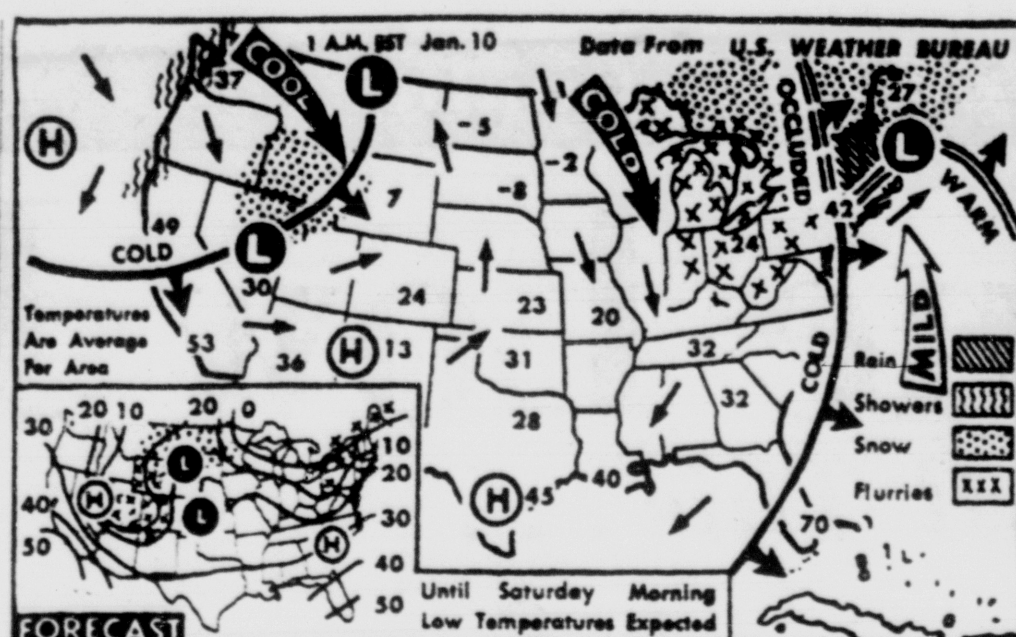

A few seconds later there was a violent explosion and the glass broke in both living room windows. Pieces of the bomb were found scattered around the outside of the house.

gram is aimed at solving the farm problem. Khrushchev apparently recognizes that this will require taking some resources from other programs, such as health and housing, plus imports.

Despite Moscow's announcement last month of a $600-million cut in the Soviet military budget, CIA has no hard evidence of an actual reduction in the arms output.

The CIA spokesman said Soviet gold reserves have dropped below $2 billion, a minimal figure, with grain purchases from the West costing heavily.

The CIA estimate was disputed by experts in London's financial district. They doubted the CIA could have obtained accurate figures on Soviet gold reserves, a closely guarded Soviet secret, and said the Soviets to not appear worried about their gold position. Moscow paid cash in the recent big wheat deals even where credit was available, they pointed out.

In a speech Thursday night before the National Retail Merchants Association in New York, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball said the Soviet high growth rate over the past three decades "was the result of short cuts borrowed from technological skills developed by leading nations of the free world."

Now, he said, Soviet leaders may be faced with a "hard decision" on whether to boost productivity through intensified Communist planning or through an easing in the direction of the free enterprise system.

Noted Speakers Slated for CAP Conference

More than 150 Civil Air Patrol teenage cadets of Group III will hear several noted speakers when they attend a one-day conference Sunday at CAP headquarters at Peterson Field.

The cadets, their senior officers, and their parents will be escorted from Colorado Springs, Security, Lamar and the two Pueblo squadrons, will be in attendance.

Officials report that a well-selected agenda has been made and geared to the interest of the cadets.

Lt. Col. Herbert E. Hammond, CAP commander of Group III, will define the purpose of the conference. "I would like to have every cadet in the group attend," Hammond said.

The noted speakers at the conference will be Chaplain Maurice R. Holt, a lieutenant colonel and base chaplain at the Air Force Academy, and Lt. Col. Mac Vickery, director of operations at Peterson Field.

Col. Holt is a former Civil Air Patrol national air chaplain. He is Air Force liaison officer to CAP.

Following the invocation, which will be given by the Rev. Wayne Williams, local minister and chaplain, five minute talks will be given by outstanding cadets from each squadron within the group. Mrs. Pauline Meighen, former Powder Puff Derby contestant, will speak.

Col. Hammond inaugurated cadet conferences some three years back. These conferences have been adopted by many CAP Groups in the Rocky Mountain Region of Civil Air Patrol.

In line of service, Col. Hammond has served as Group III commander for more than 10 years. He entered CAP in early 1942 and has held continuous membership ever since.

Golden Residents Hurt in Mishap

Three residents of Golden were injured when their car rolled over, five miles north of here on U.S. Highway 85-87 Thursday night, the State Patrol reported.

The driver of the car, Douglas F. Cerise, 19, suffered abrasions and bruises. Mike Allegretto, 19, received bruises and Paul Person, also 19, suffered bruises and a head cut.

All three were treated at St. Francis Hospital and released. State Patrolman J. Fred Henderson, who investigated the accident, said the southbound car swerved to the left, leaving 17 feet of scuff marks, before going down a 76-foot bank and rolling over.

The driver and Allegretto were both thrown from the car, Henderson said. Sgt. J. Abendschneider and Patrolman Jake McDaniel assisted in the investigation of the accident.

Defendant Forfeits $100 Bond in JP Court

Walter Chaney, 43, formerly of 2156 S. Corona St. forfeited his $100 bond when he failed to appear in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Thursday to answer a charge of disturbance.

According to the complaint, the defendant created a disturbance at 2156 S. Corona St., the home of his former wife, Peggy Chaney, Dec. 6.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

A cold push of cold air continued its east and southward advance during the early morning hours Friday and now covers just about all the area east of the Rockies.

Skies were clear in most of the area covered by the cold air except in extreme northeast portions of the nation. Snow or snow flurries, generally light, continued over Michigan and the eastern Great Lakes region.

Light snow also extended into the Appalachians while rain and snow were reported from New England.

Cloudiness was rather variable over the Rockies and southwest, with skies mostly cloudy in the northwest.

Rain was general in the Pacific northwest, with the precipitation area extending eastward as light snow into the northern Rockies.

Temperatures early Friday morning in the 30s extended southward into extreme northwestern Florida and along sections of the Texas Gulf coast. Sub-zero conditions were confined to extreme north central section of the nation, extending from the Dakotas eastward into Wisconsin and adjacent areas.

A few points in this area reported temperatures below the minus-20 degree mark. Temperatures along the east coast were above freezing. The Rockies were generally in the teens and 20s while the Pacific coast area was in the 30s and 40s.

Tobacco May Be Further Indicted By Health Probe

in the works 14 months. Terry, who appointed the committee members, also is expected to outline plans for a second phase of the study—to be concerned with recommendations for action.

When the 1959 report was issued LeRoy E. Burney, then the surgeon general, said in a statement: "Unless the use of tobacco can be made safe, the individual person's risk of lung cancer can best be reduced by the elimination of smoking."

Further, Burney said the weight of evidence implicated smoking—particularly cigarette smoking—as the principal causative factor in the increased incidence of lung cancer.

The tobacco industry claims, however, that a causative connection between smoking and impaired health has not been proved.

In a detailed report released Thursday at Greensboro, N.C., the nation's tobacco companies claimed the vast majority of smokers suffer no serious impairments of health or shortening of life.

The Tobacco Institute, Inc., representing manufacturers of cigarettes, pipe tobacco, chewing tobacco and snuff said tobacco use always has been condemned by some as being injurious to health. Scientists know that viruses cause cancer, the report said.

The consumption of cigarettes has continued to climb since 1958. The total estimated U.S. consumption for 1963 was 523 billion cigarettes, the seventh consecutive year a record was set, and 3 per cent more than in 1962. Consumption of cigars and cigarillos totaled about 7.2 billion last year, the highest total in 40 years.

A health service spokesman said the new government report will be mailed to every physician and osteopath in the country. It also will be sent to all governors, state health officials, and to officials of other interested organizations.

Manned Orbiting Platform May Be Used for Defense

they will transfer to the pressurized canister, where they will remove their space suits and operate in a shirt-sleeve environment.

After three or four weeks aloft, the astronauts will don space suits, slip back into the Gemini capsule and return to earth, leaving the canister in orbit.

In announcing the MOL decision on Dec. 10, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said the first manned flight of the complete vehicle is expected late in 1967 or early 1968 after a number of unmanned launchings have qualified the equipment.

McNamara stressed the project is "an insurance program" to prepare the United States to launch manned space warships if the need should arise.

Basically, MOL will be a research program. It will add to the knowledge on how man can function for long periods in space; it will determine technical requirements for military missions, serve as a proving ground for components and systems which must operate in space for long periods, and will establish the configuration for military spacecraft.

Although McNamara declared a military space mission has not been defined clearly, officials close to the MOL project list these potential assignments:

Reconnaissance: The network of space stations would keep continual watch on key enemy military installations and troop movements.

Surveillance: Using infrared detectors like those in the Midas early warning satellites, the space ships could sense enemy missile launchings and assess whether they were fired in anger.

Navigation: Acting as stars whose precise orbital positions are known at all times, space stations could serve as navigation beacons for ships, planes and submarines.

Inspection: The manned craft could maneuver beside foreign satellites suspected of carrying spy equipment or nuclear bombs. Satellites determined to be hostile could be destroyed or rendered useless by electromagnetic or other gear.

Weapons Carrier: The space ships could be flying arsenals, able to destroy an enemy missile in flight, drop nuclear bombs or wage a dogfight with an enemy manned spaceship.

Command and Control: Although MOL would be too small to serve as a military control point in space, it could test the feasibility of such a development.

Drive Against Youth Smoking Launched in U.S.

the last four years, a campaign has been waged to cut down the half-trillion cigarettes consumed each year in the United States.

The American Cancer Society has distributed leaflets to 8 million teen-agers, asking: "Shall I smoke?" The society's classroom campaign has reached into more than half of the nation's secondary schools, and now is going to the fourth, fifth and sixth grades with literature and films.

Last November Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California named a 10-member advisory committee to study smoking and health and "recommended to me what action the state can and should take to safeguard health."

The Seventh Day Adventist Church has conducted clinics to help smokers quit.

Along side cigarette machines on the University of Pittsburgh campus, signs warn students they are risking harm. Box lunches packed at Malmstrom Air Force Base, Mont., no longer contain cigarettes.

The Paine Drug Co. of Rochester, N.Y., removed cigarettes from its retail counters. The Franklin National Bank ordered the 1,350 employees of its 50 branches on Long Island to stop smoking at work, except in washrooms.

In Baltimore, Md., the Johns Hopkins Hospital department of health is studying smoking habits in two high schools—one with an intensive campaign against smoking and the other without.

The topic is of double concern—both life and livelihood—for tobacco-growing states.

In North Carolina, which has a bigger stake than any other state in this industry, Gov. Terry Sanford, an occasional cigar smoker, said:

"If there is a harmful element in tobacco, then we want to know it—not so we can destroy the industry—but so we can eliminate that element."

Several methods have been devised to aid the smoker who wants to quit.

Mayor Cavanagh chose the hardest, abruptly stopping without assistance.

Another method is to substitute chewing gum or a piece of candy for a cigarette.

Seventh Day Adventist clinics advise drinking eight glasses of water a day—water, not coffee. The latter stimulates the desire for tobacco.

shaking hands and soliciting support.

Each made a formal speech—Rockefeller a week ago today in Portsmouth and Goldwater Wednesday in Manchester.

Crowds were good and enthusiastic at each candidate's formal appearance.

Early last fall, political observers gave Goldwater a strong lead over Rockefeller. Then came the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and some thought the senator slipped a little. But not enough, in their estimation, for Rockefeller to overtake him.

Today, the professionals indicated Goldwater was still ahead, the only question being by how much.

CONELRAD Replaced by New EBS System

The national Emergency Broadcast System (EBS), designed to provide the public with information in event of a nuclear attack, is now in effect replacing the old CONELRAD system.

EBS will be composed of radio and television stations holding National Defense Emergency Authorization. These stations will remain on the air after an emergency action notification. All others will stop broadcasting.

The CONELRAD alert was initiated by the North American Air Defense Command in 1951 but under the new plan, the responsibility for the emergency action notification has been assigned to the Office of Civil Defense (OCD).

OCD maintains its National Warning Center in the NORAD combat operations center here.

The new plan will retain one feature of the old CONELRAD system—a special teletype system interconnecting and capable of seizing the Associated Press and United Press International news wires which will continue to be used for alerting purposes under EBS.

These networks extend to about 4,500 standard FM radio and television stations.

The change from CONELRAD to EBS means that in a civil defense emergency, radio stations will no longer switch to 640 or 1240 kilocycles. Plans for replacing CONELRAD were made following a Department of Defense report in 1962 revising requirements for control of electromagnetic radiation.

The new plan outlines the fundamentals of an operational system. It says the system "has been devised to provide the President and the federal government, as well as state and local governments with a means of communicating with the general public thru non-government broadcast stations during the period proceeding, during and following an enemy attack."

"I've tried to stabilize the situation. The more disharmony there is, the more it will minimize the possibility that the court will allow reorganization," he said.

"People jump to conclusions about what I'm going to do and what I'm not going to do with my reorganization plan, I haven't even begun to work on the plan yet, except in my head," the trustee said.

The trustee did not indicate how he will recommend the company's reorganization. One group of creditors, the Creditors' Committee, JNFC, favors reorganization as a small loan company.

Betz said he met with preferred stock holders Wednesday night at their request, but made no commitment as to including them in the reorganization plan. Their claims represent $50,500.

"They realize, of course, that their claim to the company's assets is far down on the list. I don't know that they have even decided to request the court for inclusion in reorganization," Betz said.

According to law, first claims to the assets go to the government—federal, state and county taxes; then, mortgages; 5 1/2 per cent demand note holders; straight debt note holders; subordinated debt note holders; preferred stock holders; and Class B common stock holders; generally in that order.

Suspect in Car Theft Is Jailed

A Ft. Carson man suspected of stealing a car from in front of the Brass Rail Grill, 133 W. Colorado Ave., was in custody this morning, police said.

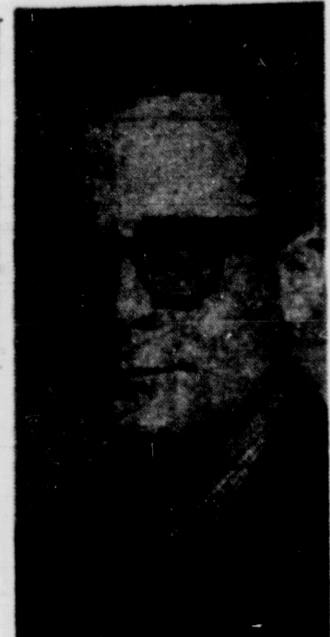

The man, Richard Warren Rider (no age given) was identified by the victim of the theft, George Jahelka, also of Ft. Carson.

Jahelka said he parked the car early this morning with the key in the ignition and the engine running. He went into the Brass Rail and a few minutes later saw Rider driving away in the car.

Police caught Rider at Colorado and Nevada Avenues minutes after the theft.

Another car was stolen from in front of 227 Cheyenne Rd. Thursday night where it had been parked by Paul John Rothkamm, who lives at the address.

Rothkamm told officers he left the car with the engine running while he went into the house to change his clothes. When he came out, it was gone. The owner of the car is Roland Fredette of the same address.

RUDOLPH J. WEIDE

Policeman Hired By Broadmoor Improvement Unit

Rudolph J. Weide, 40, of 1221 Houston Ave., has been hired as a policeman by the Broadmoor Improvement Society. He started his duties on Jan. 1, replacing a patrolman who left the force in October.

A veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict, Weide spent 20 years in the Army before his retirement in December of 1962.

Weide was born in Illinois and attended schools there before joining the Army in 1942. As a sergeant in the Military Police he served as a prison guard and riot squad NCO in Europe and was assigned to the security police detachment at Redstone Arsenal Guided Missile Center in Huntsville, Ala.

Weide was stationed at Ft. Carson from 1954 to 1960 as Troop Information NCO at the post information office. He has been a resident of Stratton Meadows since 1954 where he lives with his wife and 2-year old daughter.

Before taking his present job with the Broadmoor police, he worked as a security guard for the Montgomery Ward building being constructed at Pikes Peak and Barnes Avenues. Weide has been a special El Paso County deputy sheriff since 1959.

The engineers developed a liquid fuel that could be stored indefinitely in the tanks of advanced Titans. These missiles can be launched within a minute, the Air Force claims.

The Minutemen are considered even more reliable, with their simplified solid fuel, and they are said to be able to fire in about half a minute.

Specifications on missile performance are a closely held military secret. But it is known that the Air Force has aimed at a goal of more than 90 per cent reliability for the Minutemen, somewhat less for the liquid fuel rockets.

One available index of performance is the record of U.S. missile firings in test, space experiments and training launches by Strategic Air Command crews.

The Air Force says that of 199 Atlas firings through December, 137 were successful, 31 partially successful and 31 failures.

Of 90 Titan firings, 65 were rated successes, 17 partially so and only 8 outright flops.

Of 64 Minuteman launches, 44 were rated successes, 15 partial successes and 5 failures.

The rate of failures always is greater in the early stages of test firings.

Polaris Submarine Scores New Success

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A Polaris A3 submarine missile registered its 16th success in its last 18 launchings Tuesday night, striking a target area more than 1,500 miles down range.

Objectives of the land-pat firing were to evaluate guidance, warhead and other systems. The Navy reported that preliminary data showed all goals were achieved.

The A3 is being developed for a range of 2,875 miles, more than 1,000 miles more than earlier Polaris models.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Dickson entertained Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Christian, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dickson, Debra, Gary and Teresa, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Dickson, Debra, Tonya, Sherry, Dianne and Janet, Allen, Ruth and children at a Christmas dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vette had Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dickson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Carrier and Beth, Mrs. Lois Carrier and David, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dickson for New Years dinner.

A large crowd gathered at the Hanover Church New Years Eve for the watch service. A supper was served at 7:30. There were singing of special numbers, devotional talks by Larry Carrier, Joe Granesin and Bud McGuire, with prayer and silent prayer as the Old Year passed into history. They then watched some of the fireworks in the Peak at the beginning of the New Year. Some of the Drennon folks attended. Some Christian films were shown by Joe Granesin. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Huffmaster and family drove to Colorado Springs and attended the New Year watch service at the church of God on West Pikes Peak Avenue.

Word was received of the illness New Years Day of Grandma Hammer and that she had been taken to a Colorado Springs hospital. Then today word came of her passing this morning, Sunday, Jan. 5, 1964. The Hammers had made their home west of Drennon for many years, where the family grew up. Grandma living the later years of her life close to her daughter, Mrs. Harold Williams, and husband at Squirrel Creek. It was truly an inspiration to have a visit with Mrs. Hammer, who was 95 years young. Her words as I would visit her were, "The Lord has been so good to me." Even when she suffered a broken hip last summer she would always tell how good they were to her while she was in the hospital. Mrs. Hammer leaves to mourn her seven sons and two daughters, and families, many grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Mr. Hammer and one son preceded her in death. Mrs. Hammer kept young by her daily walks and by keeping busy. Many folks got to enjoy her pastime, using her nice knit dish cloths, as she had made so many. They were gifts of love, which truly seemed part of her. She will be laid away in the Hanover Cemetery, but all arrangements were not made yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Demmler and family and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Demmler had their Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cevore in Colorado Springs Christmas Eve. Then on Christmas day the Robert Demmlers drove to Colorado Springs and spent the day with Betsy's mother and family.

Christmas greetings were received from the Dick Ginn family of Medicine Hat, Canada. They now have seven children, one born Dec. 15. They had one little girl, 14 months old who was run over in September, 1962. Later they had adopted a little boy to take her place. Also greetings from Mr. and Mrs. Raymore Walcher. The Chase Chismans family returned to Texas Monday, Dec. 30, after spending the holidays with relatives here.

Spings spent Saturday night and Sunday with Grace Finch.

Rev. Bud McGuire and family were at the Hanover Community church Sunday morning, Jan. 5, this being his last message before officially going to the Security Baptist Church. However, we feel we haven't lost the family too far away, as we will see them from time to time. Our good wishes go with them for success, even tho we shall truly feel their loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reble, David and Mark, of Colorado Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wessleman of Morrison, spent New Years at the W. D. Rebles, butchering.

Trooper Seeks Son Wanted for Arson

ATHENS, Ala. (AP)—An off-duty state trooper donned his uniform to take part in a search for his son, wanted for arson.

Police Chief John Sandlin reported Wednesday that Don Bradford, 16, was charged with two counts of second-degree arson. He said the youth admitted setting fire to two animal clinics, but "doesn't know why he did it."

When officers told Earl Bradford, a state trooper, Tuesday that his son was wanted for questioning, he asked for an immediate arrest. And when they were unable to find Don, the

Only the Truth

Some people strive to learn the truth and to abide by it. Other people strive to be popular and well liked.

While there is nothing intrinsically wrong with either position, there are traps in the second position which lead into deadly peril.

The reason is that people are not perfect. If people were perfect, then the striving to be popular and well liked would coincide with striving to know the truth and to live by it. For the more truth you knew and the closer you lived in accord with it, the more you would be admired and well liked.

But the fact is that people are not perfect. They are filled with weaknesses, with emotions which are crass and unworthy. They do things they should not do. And among the things they most ardently desire in such case is that you do NOT learn the truth about them; and possibly even more important, that you do not reveal to others the truth about them you may have learned.

When this situation can be seen to be a common one, the difference in loving truth and just seeking to be loved is quickly apparent. In the former case, the individual asks nothing for himself but an opportunity to be in harmony with that which is. He sets his goal on ideals. He elevates himself above error to the best of his ability.

But in the second case, the individual is wholly at the mercy of others. He must cater to them, kowtow to them. He must, if he values their applause, be willing at times to forego the truth about them. He must look the other way; brush the dirt under the rug; smile and attempt to placate, when properly speaking he should speak up and let the truth ring out clear and clean.

The fact is this. However ea-

Monsters

Early people used to imagine the world peopled with all kinds of monsters. Modern politicians like to make you believe that every member of every other political party is a villain. A successful opponent is nothing but a monstrous villain.

Thief in the Vault

A 21-ton steel door, locked with multiple dial combinations, bars entrance to the U.S. government vault at Fort Knox, Kentucky, containing over $11.475 billion in gold. (The balance of over $4 billion in the federal stockpile of gold is in the Federal Reserve Banks or the U.S. Assay Office in New York.)

A steel fence surrounds the marble building, buttressed with four concrete and steel machine-gun emplacements. Mirrors and microphones aid continual surveillance; human and mechanical watchmen stand constant guard. Nearby are reinforcements from the nation's second largest military post, stationed behind the natural barrier of the Allegheny mountains.

If a blow torch touches the metal part of the vault, poisonous fumes automatically pour out (masks are useless against the gas). The vault can be instantly flooded with water charged with a deadly electrical current (Family Weekly, January 5, 1964).

Maximum protection is the order of day and night over the federal supply of gold, the traditional standard for man's media of exchange.

The U.S. government mints the gold, monopolizes the gold and is supposed to protect the gold. To government is entrusted the safeguarding of the nation's monetary system.

Yet there is growing evidence that the protection is not functioning; that the money supply has been tampered with; that a master thief has penetrated the elaborate devices of steel fences and vaults, and has been looking the money stockpile.

"What Has Government Done to Our Money?" is a timely and provocative study in Human Action just released from the Pine Tree Press. It is the work of Murray N. Rothbard, who received his Ph.D. in economics from Columbia University and for the past six years has been a consulting economist and historian. Other latest works include: "America's Great Depression," Van Nostrand, 1963; "Man, Economy and State: A Treatise on Economic Principles" (two volumes), Van Nostrand, 1962; and "The Panic of 1819: Reactions and Policies," Columbia University Press, 1962.

In introducing his work, this eminent economist notes: "Few economic subjects are more tangled, more confused than money. Wrangles abound over 'tight money' vs. 'easy money,' over the roles of the Federal Reserve System and the Treasury, over various versions of the gold standard, etc. Should the government pump money into the economy or siphon it out? Should it encourage credit or restrain it? Should it return to the gold standard; if so, at what rate? Historically, money was one of the first things controlled by government, and the free market 'revolution' of the 18th and 19th centuries, made very little dent in the monetary sphere. So it is high time that we turn fundamental attention to the life-blood of our economy — money.

"Let us first ask ourselves the question: Can money be organized under the freedom principles? If we favor the free market in other directions, if we wish to eliminate government invasion of person and property, we have no more important task than exploring the ways and means of a free market in money."

Dr. Rothbard explores the function of money in a free society. Then, under the chapter, "Government Meddling With Money," he analyzes the revenue of government, the economic effects of inflation, compulsory monopoly of the mint, debasement, Gresham's law and coinage (bimetallism and legal tender). He takes up central banking, inflation, fiat money, etc., and considers the fraudulent and inflationary aspects of fractional-reserve banking.

Dr. Rothbard's singularly lucid and concise analysis of mon-

Parkinson's Law Again

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

It begins to look as though Parkinson's Law works for money as well as for people.

Applied to the personnel on any public payroll, Parkinson's Law says it down as axiomatic that a given amount of necessary work will diffuse itself among the number of people — and hours — that are available to do it. In plain English, no bureaucrat really needs two aides.

For money, it is reverse English that is needed to explain the adaptation of Parkinson's Law to the business of foreign aid. All through 1963 there were enough tears wept over impending foreign aid cuts to float at least a few hundred thousand crocodiles off the sandbars of the dry river Nile. But now that terrible Otto Passman, the watchdog of foreign aid, has had his way and the $1.5 billion cut in funds has become a reality, the AID (Agency for International Development) people have suddenly discovered that they won't have to cut back appreciably on our overseas projects anyway. The reason: There is almost $700 million left over in the pipelines from past appropriations that have never been spent.

So we can restate Parkinson's Law as applied to public money this way: Work that must be done can usually be financed by whatever sum a bureaucracy already has in hand to do it.

We may be sophisticated in stretching Parkinson's Law to cover money as well as men, for obviously the law of complicity as applied to bureaucratic effort cannot be pushed to the logical absurdity of supposing that a single man could run the Foreign Aid Program on a $1-a-year salary. But then, Parkinson's Law was never meant to be precise, anyway. It was only supposed to be suggestive.

Just to keep Parkinsonian suggestion in its economic and political complexities makes this an invaluable text not only for the earnest student of money and banking, but for any concerned individual who wishes to understand what has been happening to the nation's money supply.

Paperback copies are available at $7.50. Pine Tree Press, Freedom School, Box 165, Colorado Springs.

ANSWER: By the removal of silver backing for currency, the treasury has released silver bullion for making silver coins. That was the announced reason for eliminating the last currency which had any precious metal backing it.

The reason the federal government will not buy new silver is that the price has been higher than the amount of silver in silver coins. In other words, a silver dollar has more than a dollar's worth of silver in it. That is one of the principal reasons for the disappearance of many of the "Cartwheels" from the market. Gresham's law showed that when government fiat money is in circulation the bad money drives out the good.

Until the federal government made it unlawful for Americans to own gold, and while the dollar was backed 100 per cent by gold, the people had a way to check government fiat-money inflation. They could demand gold for their gold-backed dollars, and this gold, having a value in itself because of scarcity, could be removed from the market; this would tend to reduce prices of other goods and services.

We do not see how the government could be reeducated to the strength and stability of the dollar if the government were to increase its controlled price of gold. It would mean that government would pay an obligation of a dollar's worth of gold with half that amount. It is fear of such an action which has caused some foreign claimants to withdraw gold from the United States in recent years, resulting in a gestibility percolating, our own political platform for 1964 would urge that Congress set up a system which would let any domestic government agency keep ten per cent of its savings on its annual appropriation for distribution among its own personnel as a year-end tax-free gift. This idea, I believe, was offered some years ago to Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia by a dogged Yankee from Farmington, Conn., named Ed Hall. Nothing came of it then, but if Senator John J. Williams of Delaware and Congressman H. R. Gross of Iowa were to take the idea up now, it might get some renewed mileage. The U.S. Congress has never yet learned to harness human cupidity to good Parkinsonian uses. By rewarding people for saving on government expenses, Parkinson's Law as applied to money might, paradoxically, even negate the workings of the famous law as applied to men.

"Also, President Johnson said to the joint session of Congress, 'I reiterate this government's commitment to the strength and stability of the dollar.'"

"In Christian Economics, Rev. T. E. Howard wrote, 'Thirty years of trying to increase real wealth by increasing the symbol of wealth is rapidly bringing us to a day of reckoning. Some observers are predicting that, while loudly promising never to devalue the dollar, some Saturday morning when all the money markets are closed, our government will make the "surprise" announcement that the price of gold has been increased by 100 per cent as a sure cure-all of unemployment and slow economic growth.'"

"Although I tend to be wary of ominous statements attributed to 'some observers,' and like most folks, I do not want to carry silver dollars in my pocket, it does appear that some kind of four-for-one shuffle is involved in all this. Regarding 'backing' and foreign held bills, such must be the case."

"Can both quoted comments be correct? Why would it not be better to buy new silver if it is needed for coins, and pep up the mining industry while acquiring the silver?"

Question Box

Question No. 409: "Recently it was reported that $50 million in Federal Reserve one dollar notes were placed in circulation. As I understand it, these notes are now backed 25 per cent in gold, and it is illegal for an American citizen to possess gold money although we do have silver coin."

"Also, President Johnson said to the joint session of Congress, 'I reiterate this government's commitment to the strength and stability of the dollar.'"

WASHINGTON—Speaker John McCormack starts the new session of Congress with two extraordinary expressions of confidence and support—one from President Johnson, and the other from his colleagues in the House.

On his own initiative, President Johnson wrote into their agreement on "presidential disability" the provision designating that Speaker McCormack should decide — if the President couldn't — when to take over as "Acting President."

President Johnson's deep faith in the 72-year-old Speaker's loyalty and ability to take over should he become incapacitated is clearly spelled out in one of the three principal provisions of his private agreement with McCormack.

This Johnson-McCormack succession arrangement, which is to continue in force until a new vice President is duly sworn into office, provides:

"(1) In the event of inability the President would — if possible — so inform the Speaker, and the Speaker would serve as Acting President, exercising the powers and duties of the office until the inability had ended.

"(2) In the event of the inability which would prevent the President from so communicating with the Speaker, the Speaker, after such consultations as seem to him appropriate under the circumstances, would decide upon the devolution of the powers and duties of the office and would serve as Acting President until the inability had ended.

"(3) The President, in either event, would determine when the inability had ended and at that time would resume the full exercise of the power and duties of the office."

MAKING IT LEGAL

The legality of President Johnson's decision to designate Speaker McCormack to make his own determination to take over the presidency—if Johnson is unable to do so—is supported by an opinion from Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

He ruled the President has full authority to name the Speaker, in the absence of a Vice President, as the one to determine his inability — if the President is unable to make his own decision.

While some advisers urged the President to include a provision in the agreement that the Speaker should be consulted before the Speaker became "Acting President," the President rejected this suggestion.

He expressed confidence that Speaker McCormack would make a proper determination, consulting the officials of his administration that he considered appropriate.

This position was supported by the attorney general, who cited the historical precedent in the arrangement worked out by former President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

SUPPORT IN CONGRESS

Congressional backers plan to support Speaker McCormack by pushing legislation providing he could become "Acting President" without forfeiting his right to return to the Speakership on the President's recovery.

This legislation is being prepared for introduction at this session by a bipartisan group in the House headed by Representative Michael Feighan, D-O., second-ranking member of the Judiciary Committee.

It calls for the election of the House Majority Leader as "Acting Speaker" during the period the Speaker is "Acting President." At the end of the President's disability, both the Speaker and the House Majority Leader would reassume their previous positions.

Representative Feighan already has been assured of support for the legislation by a majority of the House Judiciary Committee, which considers all bills dealing with Presidential inability and succession.

While all these legislators believe that only a constitutional amendment can solve the problem of Presidential inability on a permanent basis, they feel the Feighan bill offers a temporary solution and will blunt the drive to put the Secretary of State ahead of the Speaker in line of succession to the presidency.

The Feighan group will launch a campaign pointing out that the drive to change the line of succession is a direct attack on Congress as well as the Speaker.

CLOAK AND DAGGER

The Central Intelligence Agency is quietly checking to determine whether a West German armament concern in Hamburg which is offering a secret missile for sale to NATO countries is linked to a mysterious German scientist expelled from Switzerland. The ousted scientist is Dr. Hans Erhard, who the Swiss say was being financed by an unidentified "foreign power."

Swiss officials expelled him after learning he was experimenting with a brilliant light ray. Dr. Erhard is now back in West Germany. . . . He ruled the President has full authority to name the Speaker, in the absence of a Vice President, as the one to determine his inability — if the President is unable to make his own decision.

While some advisers urged the President to include a provision in the agreement that the Speaker should be consulted before the Speaker became "Acting President," the President rejected this suggestion.

He expressed confidence that Speaker McCormack would make a proper determination, consulting the officials of his administration that he considered appropriate.

This position was supported by the attorney general, who cited the historical precedent in the arrangement worked out by former President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

SUPPORT IN CONGRESS

Congressional backers plan to support Speaker McCormack by pushing legislation providing he could become "Acting President" without forfeiting his right to return to the Speakership on the President's recovery.

NOT A FAN

To the Editor:

Many of the columns which appear in the Gazette Telegraph are enlightening and worthwhile, but the columns of Mr. George Boardman often serve little good other than to provide amusement.

To begin with, Mr. Boardman appears to be one of those who, as Whittaker Chambers wrote, "think little about people as people, but tend to think a great deal in labels and effigies." He may have protested in a column titled "No Tags, Please," that he wishes no tags or labels for himself, but Mr. Boardman — bless his generous old soul — is certainly not adverse to labels and effigies for the rest of the population. Anyone to the left of himself (i.e., practically everyone) is automatically a member of a fancied "socialist conglomerate" — scarcely a column of his goes by without that epithet being employed.

Now, the ordinary definition of socialism (from Webster's Dictionary) is: "a political and economic theory of social organization based on collective or governmental ownership and democratic management of the essential means for the production and distribution of goods." But it seems that Mr. Boardman fancies himself as so ardent an individualist that he even has to invent his own unique individual vocabulary.

What does one have to do to qualify for membership in his "socialist conglomerate"? Have anything to do with public schools, is all, apparently; at least that's what I would have to infer from his writings: in his November 21 column, public schools are described not only as "socialist," but just for good measure, he throws in the word "communist" too. A true socialist would want the federal government to involve itself in just about everything, particularly the nationalization of productive industry, and to any ordinarily sensible head there is a good deal of difference between this stripe of person and one who favors free capitalist control of the means of production but happens to believe that local government ought to be delegated a few responsibilities. For Mr. Boardman's purposes, however, they are all lumped ly hundreds of study groups over the nation, gave American flags for automobile antennas. "I Am a Card-Carrying American" stickers for windshields and many other materials — all free. Many radio and television stations use their material and programs regularly. The headquarters has filled as many as 200 requests in one day.

DEBT REPAY

"This country has been good to Eleanor and me," he emphasizes. "Starting from nothing, we have prospered under the American system. Eleanor and I feel that the least we can do is to pour back into the free enterprise system some of the largess which it has given us and millions of other Americans."

Frank and Eleanor Ketcham are truly "card-carrying Americans." There can be millions more like them. To begin, you can be on their mailing list to receive material to help you work in the cause of freedom. All it takes to start is a letter to AMERICANS FOR FREEDOM.

Next, to come to the most disgusting aspect of Mr. Boardman, he seems to write off as ludicrous anyone who doesn't look at everything in quite the same way that he does. Thus he refuses to endorse Senator Goldwater because "we don't even think along the same lines." Thus his reaction to the efforts of conservative senators, led by Virginia's venerable Harry Byrd, to cut federal spending, is to categorize them as "comedians" (which label only exhibits the comical aspect of Mr. Boardman himself). And thus the request of a high school girl for assistance in gathering information about creeping socialism is met with scorn and derision. ("Visualize this situation," he exhorts us, "— a high school junior, a victim of compulsory education in a government owned and controlled school, asks about creeping socialism." As one of a great many other students in public high schools who are concerned about creeping socialism, I have no trouble "visualizing" the situation but find it difficult to see anything ludicrous in it.)

Finally, even his style is worthless. Were his columns spiced with some of the wit and eloquence which renders others of your columnists, like Russell Kirk, so readable and interesting, they might be more bearable. But the we might expect a man who supposedly has doctor's degree to write decently. Mr. Boardman's columns consist of such endless ranting and canting that it becomes rather wearisome after too much of an overdose. Consider, for example, this gem of genius from his November 21 exhortation: "On one occasion an editorial writer emphasized the idea that I might look upon government as into one undifferentiated damnation.

But furthermore — just to make sure that no significant segment of the population escapes his righteous wrath — Mr. Boardman also takes a dim view of those who seek to defend themselves against this socialist conglomerate by voting against it at the polls. One need not be obsessed by falderalish abstractions about universal suffrage nor be impressed by silly "Get out the vote" campaigns in order to be sensible enough to recognize when a significant choice is offered in an election that it might be a good idea to go vote for the conservative candidate. But altho the "socialist conglomerate" is to be despised and its principles fought, there just can't be any good reason for voting against them — as witness Mr. Boardman's inability to find any, the conclusive demonstration.

Perhaps even more exasperating is Mr. Boardman's tendency to insist on an "all or nothing" approach; capitalism must run everything, even the administration of justice, in order to suit Mr. Boardman. One need not be enamored of the "There are absolutely no absolutes" philosophy to sense an element of grotesqueness in the proposal, which popped up in one of his columns, for a system of "free enterprise courts." Such an extraordinarily quaint idea we might have expected him to elaborate, but it was only mentioned and that was it. How anyone could suppose that the very people whose contempt for orderly processes has created lawlessness in society would be amenable to free-enterprise persuasion certainly escapes me.

Some politicians also tell us that we have the right to vote for a President so if the wrong man gets elected it is our own fault. Poppy cock! I suppose some people think they do have a part in the choice of a President. In a sense they do, if you want to consider it a choice between two evils — a welfare Democrat or a “me too” Republican. The real choosers

Actually, I know how people who vote feel. I made the same mistakes and I didn't mess around and play at it for a couple of weeks around election time. It's simple, Mr. Crum; I will not sanction government thievery. I will not, of my own volition and because of my own actions, succumb to the rule of the mob — that is majority rule, Mr. Crum. ### Hole in Heart Closed For Boy From Greece

BROWNS MILLS, N.J. (AP)—Michael Stamoulis, 12, born with a hole in his heart, was wheeled into the operating room at Deborah Hospital at 9 o'clock Thursday, his chest opened and the delicate task of closing the hole with nylon sutures begun. At his side was his father, Kostas. Mike's mother was at home on the island of Acarcia, Greece, with four other children.

At 1 p.m., the operation was over—a complete success, hospital authorities said.

When Mike arrived in this country Oct. 11, he told translators:

"I'd like to play football like my brothers (Nicholas, 17, and Alesio, 16). Someday, I might be just as good as they are, or almost as good."

The New York chapter of the Pan-Icarian Brotherhood of America raised $2,000 to bring Mike and his father here.

'Nobody Is Perfek'!

DEAR ABBY: My English teacher said we had to write a friendly letter to some person who lives in another city as a homework assignment, so this is what I wrote.

"Dear Abby: You are solving my problem without even knowing it because I have to write a letter for my English assignment and I chose you to write to."

"I think your column is pretty good. I don't always agree with your answers but then nobody is perfect. I sure got to give you credit. It takes a lot of nerve to give those answers because you no what happens when you stick your nose in other people's business."

"Very truly yours,

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old daughter (whom I'll call Jane) is serious about a 24-year-old married man who is in the process of being divorced. They were married only five months. My problem is he spends every evening here with Jane because his lawyer told him he shouldn't be seen in public with another woman yet. Meanwhile, Jane and he are getting thicker and thicker and they are talking marriage. He is a gentleman and is well like him, but I don't think it's right for them to be planning marriage until he is free to marry. do you? My husband says he is a lot better than most of the characters Jane has gone with and we should let them be. What do you think? —JANE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: No matter how you phrase it, he is a married man until he is divorced—and he may NEVER get a divorce. Your daughter should not be spending every evening with him. If he respects her, as a gentleman should respect a lady with whom he would like to spend the rest of his life, he will let HER be until he has the right to talk marriage.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor who lives next door to us keeps all her blinds up except the one that is on the window which looks right into our house. Don't you think it looks like she is trying to shut us out? We never pull the shade on the window that looks right into THEIR house because we don't want it to look like we don't trust them. Shouldn't they do the same for us? —HURT

DEAR HURT: Not necessarily. Shades insure privacy, and you shouldn't feel "hurt" if a neighbor evidences a desire for privacy. You have the same privilege.

Swimsuit makers are ditching the tank-suit. The new collections include shapes brand new to beaches. For example, Inge, Maidenform's new designer, decks out her swimsuits with collars, turtle-necks, empire sashes and flounces.

New cotton shifts follow the straight and narrow path to fashion fame. Others swing out to tentlike width and still others follow body curves in an easy manner to arrive on the resort scene with their own individual shapes.

This is the year of the total look in cotton swimwear. A chic new swimsuit alone is no longer enough for making a fashion splash on the beach. To be in the current session was more than $1.25 million. The cost for printing one day came to $27,000, a sum equal to individual blouse, jacket, sweater or shirt.

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

If you want to make something different for a change that is ever so good and takes little effort, try this:

Buy some dried apricots. Put them in a great big fruit jar. Pour boiling water over them and let sit overnight on your drainboard. Do not put too many apricots in the jar because, remember, they will swell. I fill my jar about half full of fruit.

The next day put these apricots in your refrigerator. Let them sit one more day.

By then, they will have become swollen . . . nice and juicy.

Pour the water off, put the apricots, as is, into your blender (or electric mixer) and give them a whirl. At this time one may add a few spoons of sugar or a sugar substitute. You will come out with the thickest most exciting jam you have ever tasted.

If you like a wee bit of a sour taste, thinly slice four or five slivers of fresh lemon and put in the jar before pouring the boiling water over the fruit.

I have also tried this with other mixed dried fruits such as pears and peaches. Wham, does it make a different treat for breakfast! This is wonderful when put on waffles or hot-cakes. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here are a few suggestions for the hurried mother with little children:

A finicky appetite of a sick child can be stimulated sometimes by these little tricks. I keep a box of tiny colored pictures, which I have cut from magazines, in my kitchen. There will be pictures of a little bird, animals, flowers, automobiles, etc. I fasten one of these pictures on the bottom of a sturdy glass or custard cup, glass cereal bowl etc. with scotch tape. The child is eager to see the picture and he eats and drinks the contents of all the glass dishes! The child really loves it. —Mrs. Maurice Gordon

Dear Heloise:

Too much moisture in window panes can be stopped very easily in a home that does not have a basement.

Large sheets of Pliofilm (which can be purchased inexpensively from any builders supply firm) spread out over the ground under the house will solve the problem!

Until we did this, we were bothered with so much moisture that we actually had mildewed walls behind the furniture. —Reader

Must be so. Even exterminating companies wrote in that they did the same thing! Many people put their own Polyethylene plastic on the ground under the home. No more sweaty windows and most people swear that mildew was eliminated in closets! It's cheap, so sure is worth a try. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Yesterday, I successfully removed an old cod liver oil stain from one of my baby's best cotton dresses by using hydrogen peroxide.

I poured two tablespoons of peroxide in a china bowl and added a pinch of borax and applied this mixture to the stain. I let it set awhile and then laundered as usual. —A Reader

Dear Heloise:

This idea came from a lumber yard (and it's a honey): they sold me a one foot square of quarter-inch masonite tempered hardboard for a kitchen cutting board. Dad rounded the edges.

This is great for cutting roasts, preparing sandwiches or salads, protecting the kitchen surface from hot pans, and so forth. It cleans easily with a soapy dish cloth. Best of all, it has no splinters and it does not hold odors! —Ellen Greengard

Dear Heloise:

As a warning to women who soak their venetian blinds in detergent for a long time . . . if they are soaked too long it might loosen the paint, especially if your detergent mixture is too strong.

Several of my neighbors and myself found this out to our dismay when we took our blinds out of the bathtub and the baked-on finish just slid right off and we had to buy new blinds. —Agnes Joseph

Gals, this is right about soaking venetian blinds in the bathtub with too strong a detergent and scouring powders. Strong ammonia will do the same thing.

Heed her word. —Heloise

Multilingualist at Carson Teaches Nine Languages

A childhood of migration through Central Europe was the unusual but practical, in the long run, preparation for Mrs. Natalia Pederson's new career as a language teacher at Ft. Carson. Her teaching career began in 1939 at Ent Air Force Base, where she taught her native language, Russian. She came to Carson and can utilize her knowledge of nine languages. The Army atmosphere is familiar for Mrs. Pederson, the daughter of a Russian cavalry officer and wife of a retired Army noncommissioned officer. Her father left Russia at the time of the Bolshevik revolution with his family, and Natalia was born in Yugoslavia and Italy. In the process of growing up, she learned to speak Russian, German, Italian, French, Hungarian, Serbian, Croatian, Polish and English.

As a language supervisor at the Ft. Carson Army Education Center, Mrs. Pederson can assist in teaching several languages in classes and with those using 123 recording units for home study use. The department has seven part-time instructors and a variety of languages to study. This multilingualist also plays the organ at her home, 401 Springfield Ave., which has been the Pederson legal residence since 1949.

The bidding:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 3♥ Pass
4♥ Pass 5♥ Pass
Opening lead: Queen of ♠

My good friend and teammate, Peter Leventritt, has been a prolific source of material for these columns through the years, and today's hand is no exception. As South, the declarer in a four heart contract, his flawless technique provides an excellent example for those who aspire to improve their dummy play.

West opened the queen of clubs and the ace was played from dummy. Declarer observed that, if all suits responded favorably, he might wind up taking 12 tricks. Since the safety of his contract was his main concern however, Leventritt proceeded on a course which prepared for the worst.

At the second trick, he ruffed out North's remaining club and then played the ace and another heart. West discarded a club on the second round of the suit, and East proceeded to cash the king and jack of trumps. Since he could no longer exit safely with a club, East shifted to the nine of spades. Declarer put up the jack which was covered by West's queen and North's ace.

Leventritt was confronted with a spade loser in addition to the two trump tricks. His concern, now, was to bring in the diamond suit without further casualty. He led a diamond to the ace in his hand as both opponents followed suit. Next came the king and another spade, and South calmly tabled his cards to claim the contract.

If West wins the trick, he has no safe means of exit and must surrender his diamond trick. If East goes in on the third spade, his forced return of a black card enables South to sluff a diamond from his hand as he ruffs in the dummy.

Leventritt's play of the ace of diamonds sets the stage for the end position and guards against a four-one break in that suit. If the diamonds are three-two, declarer cannot go wrong. Observe that, if South makes his spade exit without first cashing one of his high diamonds, East can get off play safely with a diamond if he takes the lead, and sink the contract.

Carrier Limp Into Harbor After Storm

NEW YORK (AP) — The aircraft carrier Essex limped into New York harbor Thursday showing the scars of battle with two North Atlantic storms. Gaping holes were torn in her 23-ton, 60-foot main mast, containing electronic equipment, crashed to the deck during the storms.

"In all my years at sea," said Capt. J. M. West, "I never saw a storm as bad as that one." The waves were 85 feet high, he said. No one was hurt.

U.S. Railroads Are Healthy, ICC Chief Says

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The new chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission took a look at the nation's railroad industry today and declared the patient healthy and sound.

"They'll never be obsolete—no, sir," declared Abe McGreggor, 64, an Idaho Republican who assumed the chair of the 1-man commission Jan. 1. "The railroads have had a tremendous increase in long-haul traffic," Goff said in an interview. "I won't make any specific predictions about the future, but all of our railroads are in much healthier shape than they were last year at this time."

Why, then, if the industry is so healthy, have so many mergers been consummated or proposed?

"Why, that's simple," Goff said. "Seventy-five years ago, when all the railroads were laid out, they didn't lay them out in a pattern designed for modern conditions. They had no way of knowing what this country would look like today. So now there have to be some adjustments made."

Goff had a ready answer when asked whether he has a philosophy about railroad mergers.

"Of course I do," he said. "If they're in the public interest, I favor them. If they're bad, I'm against them."

One of the biggest merger cases the ICC has considered in a long time is the proposal to merge the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads.

Hearings on that proposal ended last summer after a year of arguments. Two ICC examiners are sifting through more than 20,000 pages of testimony and evidence.

Goff refused to predict when the final commission decision will be handed down.

"That's too hard to say safely," he said. "But I'll be surprised if the examiners have a recommendation before Labor day."

No Sign Seen to Halt Atom Arms Production

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Critics of "overkill" believe they have gone a long way toward winning over the Johnson administration to their view that the United States owns too much nuclear weapon power and ought to slash it drastically.

They may be a little too optimistic, although President Johnson gave them encouragement Wednesday by decreeing a major reduction in the output of materials that go into making atomic and hydrogen weapons.

There is no sign that Johnson or Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara are ready to halt further production of nuclear weapons.

And top U.S. officials have made no move to dismantle any missile bases or retrench from goals which contemplate a force of more than 1,200 intercontinental ballistic missiles and 656 submarine-launched Polaris missiles within the next few years.

The new military budget will reflect a leveling off because the administration has topped the rise of an expensive three-year campaign to build U.S. nuclear missile strength.

Even with that, the next budget is expected to provide for 50 more Minuteman ICBMs.

What Johnson's action recognizes is that the United States—while perhaps not yet at the "overkill" level—has accelerated its rate of weapons production to such a degree in recent years that an excessive arsenal may be in sight.

Administration sources said after Johnson's address that nuclear weapon stocks have increased 50 per cent during the past three years.

The stockpile of enriched uranium, plutonium and other weapons ingredients has grown so large since World War I that it will provide a considerable backlog from which to draw for some time to come, even with a lower materials production rate.

Furthermore, the retirement of obsolescent weapons such as those carried in aging B47 bombers makes available nuclear materials that be reworked into more modern warheads.

The President's move serves to focus attention on the "overkill" argument which has been going on for some time in the relative privacy of circles interested in arms policy and strategy.

Critics of heavy atomic armaments use the term "overkill" to dramatize their view that the United States has built enough such weapons to pulverize an enemy many times over.

This, they contend, does not ensure national safety but actually makes the danger of war greater.

The United States, they insist, could make a sharp cut in its nuclear weaponry and still deter attack—while saving up to $15 billion a year, the amount now applied to piling up more atomic weapons.

Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, an atomic scientist who often speaks for the anti-overkill group, said the weapons materials production cutback ordered by Johnson "signals the beginning of the end of atomic production."

"The requirement for strategic weapons was satisfied a long time ago," he told a reporter. "We can cut back without loss of national security."

A comparatively little known leader of the anti-overkill group is a Columbia University professor named Seymour Melman. Perhaps significantly, Melman was invited to the White House recently and there he made his arguments to Johnson.

These critics—scientists, theorists and a few members of Congress—are challenged by military leaders such as Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Uninformed advocates of a big atomic striking force assert it would permit neutralizing an enemy's military power—and thus knocking him out of a war—without hitting his cities and slaughtering his civilians.

With only a limited number of atomic weapons—too few to demolish his missile bases and airfields—the "nucs" would have to be aimed at cities to achieve an enemy's destruction, these strategists say.

What this would do, the military men claim, is deny a president a choice of military courses short of atomic war—but under the protective umbrella of poised nuclear strength feared and respected by an enemy.

Thus, Taylor has said, a president would be sentenced to "this one dreadful alternative" of massive hydrogen attack on cities—and in such an exchange, U.S. cities likely would be blasted, too.

From a practical standpoint, the foes of "counterforce"—the polite name for overkill—look or deliberately ignore a number of considerations which dictate a large atomic force, military men contend.

Among these factors are the number of nuclear warheads needed to knock out an underground missile base or other target—several would be required on each; possible losses before launch due to an enemy's first strike against U.S. bases, and weapons that malfunction due to mechanical or human error and thus do not reach target.

Another important element, in the military man's view, is obsolescence.

Taylor told Congress last summer "it is always essential to have an adequate overlap of a new weapons system coming in with the old one going out." This, the chairman said, adds to the over-all requirement for numbers of nuclear weapons.

Lined up with the military men, for different reasons, are industry and labor elements who are concerned that a reduction in armaments would lead to wholesale unemployment and economic dislocation.

MISSIONARY LEARNS ENGLISH — Father Luis Ortega of Mexico City studies a text book in English with Father John Wood, resident chaplain at St. Francis Hospital.

Francis Hospital. Padre Ortega will leave in February for a ten year assignment as a missionary in Korea.

Missionary Learns English On Visit Here

The Rev. Luis Ortega, Missionary of Guadalupe from Mexico City will leave early in February for Korea after spending three months as the guest of Father John Wood at St. Francis Hospital.

Father Wood brought the newly ordained priest with him from Mexico City after convincing the Bishop that a passing acquaintance with the English Language would be valuable to the young missionary when he reached Korea.

Padre Ortega is an apt pupil. With concentration he can now understand and make himself understood in English. He can read English well.

The three months in Colorado Springs have been a pleasant interlude following his many years studying for the priesthood and preceding the arduous life of a missionary which lies ahead of him in Korea.

"I like this place, this hospital, this city," Father Ortega said.

His parents, two brothers and three sisters live in Mexico. He is the eldest child.

Academy Assists CC Symposium

The Air Force Academy has provided considerable assistance to Colorado College in planning the Jan. 12-18 symposium on World War II, according to Symposium Director Fred A. Sondermann.

Dr. Sondermann, associate dean of the independent liberal arts college, thanked the Academy for help he had received from several members of the Academy faculty in suggesting symposium participants.

Those working with him were Captains Charles Cooke, Jr., T. C. Pinckney, and John Pustay. Five members of the Academy faculty will participate in the symposium.

The Air Force Academy band, under the direction of Capt. A. D. Gabriel, will present a concert of music related to World War II at 7 p.m. Jan. 17 in Shove Chapel on the Colorado College campus.

In addition, Dean Sondermann said, the academy agreed to hold its annual Harmon Memorial Lecture Jan. 18 on a subject related to the war.

Maurice Matloff, historian for the U. S. Army, will talk about Franklin D. Roosevelt as War Leader at 9 a.m. Jan. 18 in Arnold Hall on the Academy campus.

$9,000 Damage Suit Filed in District Court

A $9,000 personal damage suit was filed in District Court Thursday by Harry P. Andreasen of Sun City, Ariz. against James O'Dell, 212 Cheyenne Blvd.

O'Dell was the operator of a restaurant called the Flamingo Inn Restaurant in Garden City, Kan. Nov. 17, 1962, when the plaintiff entered the premises as a customer. It is alleged the defendant did not provide adequate warning of a stairway and that the lighting was insufficient.

Andreasen, says the complaint, fell, and suffered permanent and temporary injuries.

Joseph Raymond Azarie Lancot was fined $15 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Thursday for careless driving and not obeying the inspection law. Lancot, 21, of 306 N. Cascade Ave. was cited Dec. 21 on Colorado Highway 11 by State Patrolman Lloyd M. Carothers.

Carothers also gave a ticket to James Willie Waddy, 22, of the Air Force Academy for careless driving on U.S. Highway 85-87 Dec. 21. A $5 fine and costs was imposed.

Mary Jane Nelson, 21, of 1419 E. Buena Ventura St. was charged with the same violation and fined $5 and costs. The officer was Carothers and the incident happened on U.S. Highway 85-87 Dec. 1.

Kenneth Ray Friedley paid a $10 fine and costs for driving at 45 miles per hour in a 35 zone. Friedley, 30, of 1617 Holmes Dr. was ticketed on Circle Drive Saturday by State Patrolman A. G. Murin.

State Patrolman J. D. Morrissey cited Douglas C. Jardine, 72, of 1216 N. Cascade Ave. for making a left turn from the center of U.S. Highway 24 Dec. 24. The defendant paid a $5 fine and costs.

Murin also issued a summons to John Henry Clay, 71, of 1204 N. Corona St. as he was following too closely on Fillmore Street Jan. 1. A $5 fine and costs was imposed.

Careless driving on Cheyenne Boulevard Jan. 2 cost Carole Janice Offinier, 17, of 1308 Hermosa Way $5 and costs. J. E. McDaniel of the state patrol was the officer.

Burnie Hinson McManus, 35, of 3924 Magnolia St. was charged with driving without a valid Colorado operator's license and having no Colorado registration. The defendant who was fined $10 and costs was ticketed Thursday on North Nevada Avenue by State Patrolman Ken Shifflet.

James Anthony Archuleta, 20, of Ft. Carson paid a $5 fine and costs for failing to yield the right of way. State Patrolman A. G. Murin cited Archuleta Dec. 5 on South Nevada Avenue.

Making a left turn in front of approaching traffic cost Paul Russell Waring, 19, of 110 E. Van Buren St. $5 and costs. The violation took place Dec. 21 on East Fillmore Street. The officer was State Patrolman Lloyd M. Carothers.

Rare World War Films Slated for Symposium

Two dozen motion pictures dealing with World War II will be shown at Colorado College during the Jan. 12-18 symposium on the war.

Several of the films will be shown twice, according to Prof. Gilbert Johns and Elmer Peterson. Assisting them in selecting films for the week-long symposium were Lt. William Pence of Ent Air Force Base and Robert Adams of the Colorado College English department.

Shown will be films from Germany, Japan, Great Britain, Poland, the United States, France, Russia and Italy.

Included is a rare collection of Nazi propaganda films. The "most revealing and impressive" of these is one called "Triumph of the Will."

Among the particularly outstanding films are the Polish film "Kanal," the new Japanese film "Fires on the Plain," two French films "Le Retour" and "Night and Fog," the Italian film "Open City," and two American pictures "The Battle of San Pietro" and "Munro."

"Kanal" is a feature film done by the Polish director Wajda who also directed "Ashes and Diamonds." The film depicts the fate of a group of Poles who participated futilely but bravely in the Warsaw fight against the German Army in 1944. A good portion of the film deals with the group's attempt to escape the pursuing Nazis by traveling thru the sewers of Warsaw and the ultimate unhappy fate of each.

"Fires on the Plain" is a brutally realistic contemplation of one aspect of war. According to the New York Times the director wanted the spectator "not only to see, but to feel the progressively worse degradation of a sick soldier cast off in an alien land, released from the discipline of a shattered unit, compelled to forage for himself, bereft of the power of instinct to survive. With all the horror in (the film) there are snatches of poetry too."

"Le Retour" was produced by the U.S. Information Service and was photographed and edited by Henri Cartier-Bresson. It was made in August-October 1944, and in the heat of the events it describes it shows the liberation from Nazi concentration camps of French prisoners of war by the American army, their march across the shattered highways and bridges of the fallen Reich, their dispatch by air to Paris, and the return to their homes in provincial towns and cities.

"Night and Fog," directed by Alain Resnais who also did "Hiroshima, Mon Amour" is a brilliant and powerful film on the concentration camp universe in all its piercing and compelling truth.

"Open City," considered by many to be one of the greatest films of all time, has won nearly every important film award mentionable. It was produced and directed in 1945 by Roberto Rossellini, the screen play is by Federico Fellini and it stars Anna Magnani. The film which was planned before the Germans left Rome was shot under the most exacting conditions without the usual niceties of normal location or studio production. It tells a personal story for the people of Italy during the Nazi occupation with the leader of the resistance as the central character and a Catholic priest as his immediate aide.

"The Battle of San Pietro" was produced by the Army Pictorial Service and directed and narrated by Maj. John Huston. The impact of the combat photography so copiously covering action always within the range of enemy fire is reinforced by unemotional but highly expressive commentary in the voice of the director.

"Munro" is a cartoon with story and original art work by Jules Feiffer. It won an Academy Award in 1961. Four year old Munro, an ordinary, obedient boy, receives a letter Uncle Sam needs him. Passed thru his physical, marched thru drill after drill, Munro finally ties of Army games and goes to his sergeant. "I'm only four," he says, but no one listens. At the end, however, all turns out very well for Munro, although whenever the Army is mentioned Munro is a very obedient lad.

Judge Reverses His 'Trapped Driver' City Court Decision

Judge Allan Asher reversed a decision he had handed down Tuesday in a traffic case in Municipal Court, explaining that he had "misconstrued" the reading in an ordinance concerning yielding the right of way.

This led him Thursday to find Ray Dilts, 51, Woodland Park, not guilty of a signal light violation and ordering that the man's $5 fine be refunded to him.

Judge Asher had stated Tuesday that when a driver becomes "trapped" in an intersection in an attempt to make a turn, he must stay in position, rather than clear the area for drivers having the light in their favor to proceed.

In reversing his decision, the judge said that the "trapped" driver, as was Dilts' case Dec. 5, must be allowed to complete his turn before on-coming traffic continues thru the intersection.

Judge Asher also reversed another decision he had made on Dec. 5 when he found Irving Middlemist, 17, 2811 W. Bijou St., guilty of charges of careless driving and injury to city property.

The youth had been charged by city employee Ronald Kellogg with knocking down some 50 cones the man had placed on newly painted street markings.

On a motion by Middlemist's attorney Jerry Donley, Judge Asher had re-opened the case when it appeared that new evidence had been found.

Testimony by Jack Harrison, who operates a package store at 511 N. 30th St., where the incident was alleged to have partly taken place, revealed that the man had observed two youths on motorcycles kicking over the cones about the time the defendant was in the area.

Judge Asher said that Harrison's testimony at the first hearing would have cast "some doubt" on Kellogg's story since it had appeared obvious that the city employee was angered at the defendant's admission that he thought it was "funny" to watch Kellogg pick up the scattered cones.

The judge found Middlemist not guilty of the charges and ordered his $40 fine refunded.

In a third traffic case Thursday, Judge Asher converted a careless driving charge to a warning against Shirley Ann Fical, 22, 2007 E. Van Buren St.

Denver Man Forfeits $310 City Court Bond

Eugene Gudge, 30, of Denver, forfeited his $310 bond Thursday when he failed to appear before Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane to answer charges of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor and driving without a valid operator's license. Gudge was arrested Dec. 9 on U.S. Highway 24 by State Patrolman Paul H. Cornell.

State Patrolman J. D. Morrissey cited Robert C. Hunt, 23, of Ft. Carson for driving on Colorado Highway 115 Nov. 9 with out a valid operator's license. A $6 fine and costs was imposed.

George Youngblood, 46, of 106 W. Rio Grande St. was charged with the same violation and fined $6 and costs. Police Officer R. L. Gysin ticketed him Sunday on West Bijou Street.

Not complying with the inspection law resulted in a $3 fine and costs for Orlando Michael Earley, 24, of 1225 W. Cuyahoga St. received the summons Dec. 7 on South 8th Street from State Patrolman C. W. Hubbard.

Lillian J. Crespin, 18, of 602 S. Sierra Madre St. allowed an unauthorized person to drive Jan. 1 and was fined $6 and costs. The incident took place on West Kiowa Street and the officer was Jess Kyle of the police.

State Patrolman Paul H. Cornell gave a ticket to Robert Carl Conway, 29, of 3526 N. Cascade Ave. for driving at 40 miles per hour in a 30 zone on West Colorado Avenue Saturday. Conway was fined $15 and costs.

Benny Phillip Sanchez, 19, of Route 3 received a $6 fine and costs for driving without a valid operator's license. He was cited on West Kiowa Street Thursday by Police Officer Jess Kyle.

Mitchell LaRue Brown forfeited his $25 bond when he did not appear to answer a speeding charge. Brown, 35, of Milwaukee, Wis. was ticketed by State Patrolman Ken Shifflet Saturday on U.S. Highway 85-87 as he was driving at 68 miles per hour in a 60 zone.

John Hillard Orfield, 33, of 123 N. Chestnut St. was charged with driving without an operator's license and fined $6 and costs. The violation happened Tuesday on East Pikes Peak Avenue. The police officer was D. L. Watts.

Gerald M. Magee, 35, of Route 2 failed to appear and forfeited a $25 bond. According to State Patrolman Gordon Baumgardner, Magee was driving at 70 miles per hour in a 60 zone on U.S. Highway 85-87 Sunday.

Printing Week, Jan. 12-18, Set For Observance

International Printing Week will be observed in Colorado Springs and thruout the nation next week.

Mayor Harry W. Hoth urged that "men and women in this community observe the week with appropriate ceremonies and activities."

Hoth said the exercise of freedom of speech and of the press, as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, "depends in major part upon the continued healthy development and progress of the graphic arts, and more particularly the printing industry in Colorado Springs and the nation."

The mayor further added that "printing makes possible the worldwide dissemination of knowledge and thus lies at the source of all political, economic, scientific and cultural advancement."

He also noted in an official proclamation of the week, which starts Sunday, that Jan. 17 is the birthday of Benjamin Franklin, who, among all his other achievements in behalf of and contributions to the cause of freedom of mankind, is the father of printing in the United States.

Firearms Illegal In City Parks

City officials reminded today that it is illegal to carry or discharge firearms of any kind in any of the city's municipal parks.

Eugene German, superintendent of parks, said some complaints have been registered by city residents.

"There is extreme danger of persons being seriously injured as a result of a stray bullet," German said.

The municipal parks where firearms are prohibited are the Garden of the Gods, North and South Cheyenne Canon, and Palmer Park. Persons seen carrying or discharging firearms in these parks will be cited into Municipal Court.

Two Out of Six Counts Brings Driver $150 Fine

Fines totaling $150 were levied against an Ent airman Thursday in Municipal Court, altho the 26-year old man said he had no recollection of what took place Nov. 15 which led to six charges being lodged against him.

Judge Allan Asher found Morris Mace, 1229 N. Wahsatch Ave., guilty of careless driving, imposing a $50 fine, and guilty of being drunk, imposing a $100 fine.

Mace was represented by attorney Jerry Donley. At the request of Deputy City Attorney Bob Issac, the judge dismissed riotous conduct and breach of peace charges against Mace and dismissed a disorderly conduct charge against the sergeant. He continued disposition on a charge of injury to private property until Jan. 23.

Cpl. C. J. Cates testified that evidence on Mace's auto showed he struck three wooden barricades Nov. 15 on North Union Boulevard. Cates said when he talked to Mace the day following the accident, the airman denied any implication in the offense. The officer said Mace appeared to be suffering from a "severe hangover."

Mrs. Margaret Fairchild, 1315 N. Corona St., testified that the airman entered her home, on the night in question and attacked her young son. She said she had never seen the man before and he was not known to her son. Mrs. Fairchild said she called the police and the man was taken into custody.

Mace testified he had no recollection of the events. He said he had been drinking and thought the alcohol had caused him to "black out." This, he said, had been confirmed by physicians who had later examined him.

He also said he had experienced a "black out" about a year previous, and admitted he should have "taken the warning" at the time.

Donley placed two character witnesses on the stand: Col. Charles Burton, director of airman personnel at ADC, and Capt. Charles Cross, Mace's immediate supervisor.

Both officers said Mace was a "model" airman. Col. Burton said his work was exemplary and he felt Mace "worth saving." Capt. Cross said Mace "is one of the few exceptions in the Air Force; his moral behavior is above reproach," adding he would "fight to have him work for me."

Judge Asher told the airman he would accept his version of the "black out" but admitted he was skeptical, and said for the sake of his military record, no jail sentence would be imposed. He gave Mace a five-day stay of execution on the $150 fines.

At the requests of complaining witnesses, the judge dismissed charges against Sam Martinez, 44, 505 S. Tejon St., and Gilbert Roth, 41, 714 N. Corona St. Both had been charged by their wives with breach of peace and drunkenness.

Adella Hartway, 52, 616 S. Institute St., was found not guilty of a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Plea is Changed Three Times By Texas Man

A defendant in District Court Thursday changed his plea for the third time.

Jay Thornton also known as Eugene Huff pleaded innocent to grand larceny Dec. 6. On Monday he pleaded guilty and on Thursday, innocent. Judge G. Russell Miller set Jan. 28 for trial date.

Thornton, 39, of Ft. Worth, Tex. is alleged to have stolen a portable electric typewriter worth $127 from Electronic Systems Management Inc. Nov. 9.

Roosevelt Scott, 23, of 727 E. Dale St. pleaded guilty to simple robbery. Scott had been charged with aggravated robbery but Judge Miller accepted the plea to the lesser offense which is included in the original information filed against the defendant.

Scott who is currently serving a year in county jail for assault and battery, is accused of robbing Merwin Freeman, a 23-year old Ft. Carson man, of a pistol and wrist watch Nov. 1. According to a police report, Freeman had apparently passed out in an alley at the rear of 800 S. Corona St.

On Thursday testimony was given by Police Officer Quentin Conrad who told the court he had interviewed Scott and obtained a written statement which was produced. Judge Miller then set Jan. 24 as the date for pre-sentence investigation.

Tribe Meets Centennial In Road Contest Tonight

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

PUEBLO — Both hoping to jump right back in the South Central League race after upset defeats last weekend, Palmer of Colorado Springs and host Centennial High clash here tonight each knowing full well that another loss at this time would seriously damage their pennant dreams.

Last week the Terrors made the long journey to Grand Junction for the last time and came back limping from a 10-point loss to the surprising Tigers. At the same time, Centennial was getting its ears pinned back in a late flurry by Pueblo East, 64-61, and thus both squads will be coming into tonight's contest with 1-1 records in the early SCL play.

Coach Jerry Schroeder feels that it's especially important for his Terrors to win here, mainly to restore confidence that seems to have sagged in recent games. Palmer at times has shown the potential to be a genuine contender but the Tribe has also lacked the drive it takes to win the close ones.

Last week's defeat was the first black mark against the Bulldogs in six contests and they will tote a slight favorite's role into this test, with the home court advantage contributing to their cause. In earlier play Centennial knocked off defending league champion Trinidad by eight points to give an indication to the rest of the SCL that they could follow up the football title with another crown this year.

The big assignment for the Terrors tonight has been quite plain. They'll obviously have to stop — or at least slow down — the excellent shooting of Centennial's Ross Beatty who has averaged 20 points per in the two league starts. That rates him second only to Pueblo Central's Ron Schwab in the SCL scoring race.

The Bulldogs have another consistent scorer in Bill Purcell, who owns a 12-point mean, but otherwise they try to set up Beatty for the sure shot.

Palmer has no such super star in the lineup, but there are a half dozen or so who are capable of going into double figures on a given night. The main trouble is that in too many games this winter they have failed to come thru at the same time.

As a team, the Terrors probably have one of the best shooting percentages in the state, but some of this is because they have been far too bashful about going for the bucket in averaging only 46 shot attempts in six games. That's only four more shots than rebounds for the team.

Schroeder has indicated he will make one change from the regular starting lineup by moving junior Bob Pearson onto the front line in place of 6-6 Sprague Mayger for this game. This is intended to give the Tribe more scoring potential on the front line as he will team with center Bobby Joe Williams and Walt Hylton around the net.

Guards will be junior Bill McCalvy, the team's top producer with a 12.3 average, and senior Alan Snyder, as usual.

This game is particularly crucial for the Terrors, considering the upcoming schedule. Schroeder has warned against looking past anyone, but in the next two weeks Palmer will be facing Trinidad at home and then Central back here in Pueblo. These two are still rated the teams to beat in the league race.

Starting time here at Pueblo's District 60 gymnasium is set for 8 p.m. with the "B" squads from both schools going at 6:30. However, all games have been running late this season because of a new rule which requires the clock to stop every time the whistle blows, and so the varsity game probably won't get underway until well after 8 p.m.

PP Sports Car Club Set For Icekhana

The Pikes Peak Sports Car Club will sponsor its annual Icekhana this Sunday at Monument Lake beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Entry fee for the Icekhana is $2. Free coffee and doughnuts will be served with trophies and dash plaques going to the drivers. For additional information call Jeff Guinn, 685-5470.

The only thing that will postpone the Icekhana is a blizzard. If that should occur, the Icekhana will be held the following Sunday, Jan. 19.

Dave Babbs Is Named To All-America Team

NEW YORK (UPI) — Denver East High School halfback Dave Babbs was listed Thursday on the annual All-America high school football team picked by Scholastic Magazine.

Babbs was the only Rocky Mountain region selection among the 90 players representing 37 states.

Palmer Posts Win Over Wasson, 6-1

High-scoring Chuck Reinking fired in four goals in the first two periods Thursday night as Palmer continued to breeze thru its City Hockey League schedule with a 6-1 triumph over rival Wasson. It was the third straight time this winter that the Terrors have defeated the Wasson squad.

Reinking, in running his goal total to 19 in just five games, also added a third period assist to give him a fantastic record of 24 points thus far this season.

Following nearly nine minutes of almost equal action between the two teams Thursday, the Palmer star gave his team all the cushion it needed in less than a minute. He took a pass from Pete Haney and whipped home the game's first goal at the 8:41 mark, then swiped a puck from the Wasson defense and slapped a second shot into the upper right hand corner of the net with 9:20 gone.

Reinking added another un-

The Terrors added two third period scores, the first by Dave Buckley with Reinking assisting at 7:20 and the second by Ted Andrews after assists from Ray Cool and Jim McKinley at the 8:31 mark. Wasson finally got on the scoreboard at 9:37 when Steve Downey fired a rebound Glenn Mitchell and Bob Morin got the assists.

Both goalies had a busy evening with Wasson's Rick Spencer being credited with 17 stops and Paul Traxler of Palmer with 16. There were a total of seven penalties with five whistled against the Terrors.

The victory gave the Tribe a 5-0 mark in the league. Wasson fell to 2-4 and into a tie for second place in the standings.

In Young America action, the Flyers won a 2-1 decision over the Maroons in the Middleweight Division and the Beavers, with Al Trowbridge scoring twice, blanked the Pirates 2-0 in a Lightweight game.

Advance Tickets for Mat Show

Because of the expected increase in interest for the coming professional wrestling show at the City Auditorium next Tuesday night, tickets will go on sale today in advance of the usual early sale. They may be purchased at Blick's Sporting Goods, 119 N. Tejon St., or Ring Military, 122½ E. Pikes Peak.

Tuesday night's card is undoubtedly the most attractive of the season so far with a grudge tag-team match slated between some of the roughest competitors ever to appear here, plus a match of midgets, and a bout between lady wrestlers. There will be one other match on the four-bout card.

The return tag-team match resulted from an order of the state commission that no contest be ruled after last week's pairing. The bout ended with one of the wrestlers knocking out an opponent with a club for the deciding fall.

The midgets will be Tiny Roc of Canada and Cowboy Bradley from Texas. The girls will be Jessica Rogers of Chicago and Darlene Shields of St. Joseph, Mo.

Thomas, Pennel To Compete in Indoor Meet

BOSTON (AP)—A couple of spacemen are expected to give things a lift when the 38th Knights of Columbus track meet sends the 1964 indoor winter season into orbit Saturday night. Among those on hand before an expected sellout Boston Garden audience will be John Pennel, the world's greatest pole vaulter and the only person in the world ever to clear 17 feet, and John Thomas, the first man to accomplish the seven-foot high jump.

Backing up this high-flying tandem will be an array of running stars including miler Tom O'Hara.

Palmer Posts Win Over Wasson, 6-1

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Colorado Springs' musty City Auditorium, once a showcase for many of the area's basketball teams, has had little to do with the sport in recent seasons except for an annual comedy hour by the clownish Harlem Globetrotters.

Tonight, in a brief flashback to years gone by, the Aud once again swings open its doors to the cage sport and from all indications there'll be nothing funny about the 8 p.m. struggle between Colorado College and Adams State!

This evening's game is the first of two between the two schools this weekend. A rematch is scheduled for the same hour Saturday and that one will be preceded by a preliminary contest matching the CC freshmen and junior varsity.

Red Eastlack's Tigers have had little opportunity to perform for the public in recent winters — at least locally. They have been based in the school's mausoleum for the sport, a creaking on-campus building known as Cossitt Hall that provides uncomfortable seating for slightly over 200 spectators. The City Aud is considerably more spacious and although there is little chance of the Tigers filling it, they at least have their first opportunity for adequate exposure in several years.

Actually the move was necessitated by semester registration which took over the Cossitt Hall floor at CC. Following this series, the Tigers plan a strategic retreat to their more familiar headquarters.

The weekend skirmishes between the two Rocky Mountain Conference schools promise some interesting basketball to say the least. Adams State was co-champion a year ago and was prematurely awarded the title again this winter in pre-season bull sessions. The Indians come here loaded with talent but strapped to an unimpressive 4-5 record that was accomplished in the usual unpredictable Alamosa routine. The club has been brilliant on occasion — something considerably less than that on others.

Eastlack, who two short years ago was master of all he surveyed in the RMC, is attempting to mend his forces after scholastic interference made patsies out of his past two clubs. A stunning victory was gained in December when the CC coach herded his entire squad thru semester finals and thus assured himself of an unusually deep reservoir of material for the coming campaign.

The Tigers will be handicapped this weekend by shortage of playing experience. Their only two starts to date were in a holiday tournament in Chicago where they dropped close contests to Grinnell College and the University of Chicago. Tonight's battle launches a hectic pace which will see them play 20 times in less than two months.

Eastlack will attempt to blunt the Adams State talent with one of the biggest teams he's floored in recent years. His front line will include 6-6 Steve Saborn, 6-4 Farrell Howell, and 6-3 Bob Heiny. Dave Herrington, at 6-1, is a certain starter at guard with either Bill Pelz or freshman Rich Lopez drawing the call at the other spot. Lopez, a starter from last year's AAA state champions at Wheat Ridge, is the probable.

Adams State counters with a highly talented group led by All-RMC star, Lonnie Porter at guard. Porter is currently hitting at a 22.4 clip and is certainly one of the area's most sensational shooters. He is flanked by Willie Davis who carries a 15.2 mean and the remainder of the lineup includes 6-8 Dick Dylus at center with 6-6 Kent Layton and 6-4 Robert Kincaid at forwards.

Tonight's contest will launch the Tigers' final season in the RMC race. The school will withdraw from the historic conference at the conclusion of the current year.

AFL Reveals Player Shares

NEW YORK (UPI)—The San Diego Chargers' 51-10 victory over the Boston Patriots in the American Football League's championship game was worth $2,498.89 to each Charger who was voted a full share in the player-pool, it was announced today by Commissioner Joe Foss.

Full shares for members of the losing Patriots amounted to $1,596.52.

The total income from gate, television and radio receipts for the 1963 title game set a new AFL mark of $274,277.60, topping the $254,206.85 total for the 1962 game.

UCLA Is Big Surprise

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA and Texas Western are the biggest surprises of the college basketball season, now in its midseason calm, while Arizona State and New York University are the biggest disappointments.

The Uclans and Texas Western were rated high in preseason forecasts, but no one expected that they would be so prominent by this date. The Uclans now are No. 1 in the Associated Press poll with a 11-0 record while Texas Western boasts a 15-1 mark including 14 in a row, the longest current major winning streak.

In contrast the NYU Violets and the Arizona State Sun Devils, rated second and sixth in the AP preseason poll, have lost four and six games, respectively, and no longer are in the Top Ten. What happened? No one seems to know.

UCLA, sparked by Walt Hazzard, encounters a strong Big Six rival tonight in Southern California. To date the Uclans have whipped Brigham Young, Butler, Kansas State, Kansas, Baylor, Creighton, Yale, Michigan, Illinois and Washington State twice.

Big 6-foot-8 Jim Barnes is Texas Western's star. The Border Bandits beat North Texas in their opening game, then lost to Washington 57-49. Since then they have defeated Wichita, Tarleton, Long Beach, San Jose, Centenary, Tennessee Tech, Tulane, William and Mary, Clemson, Denver, Western New Mexico, Arizona State and West Texas. They won't play again until Jan. 25.

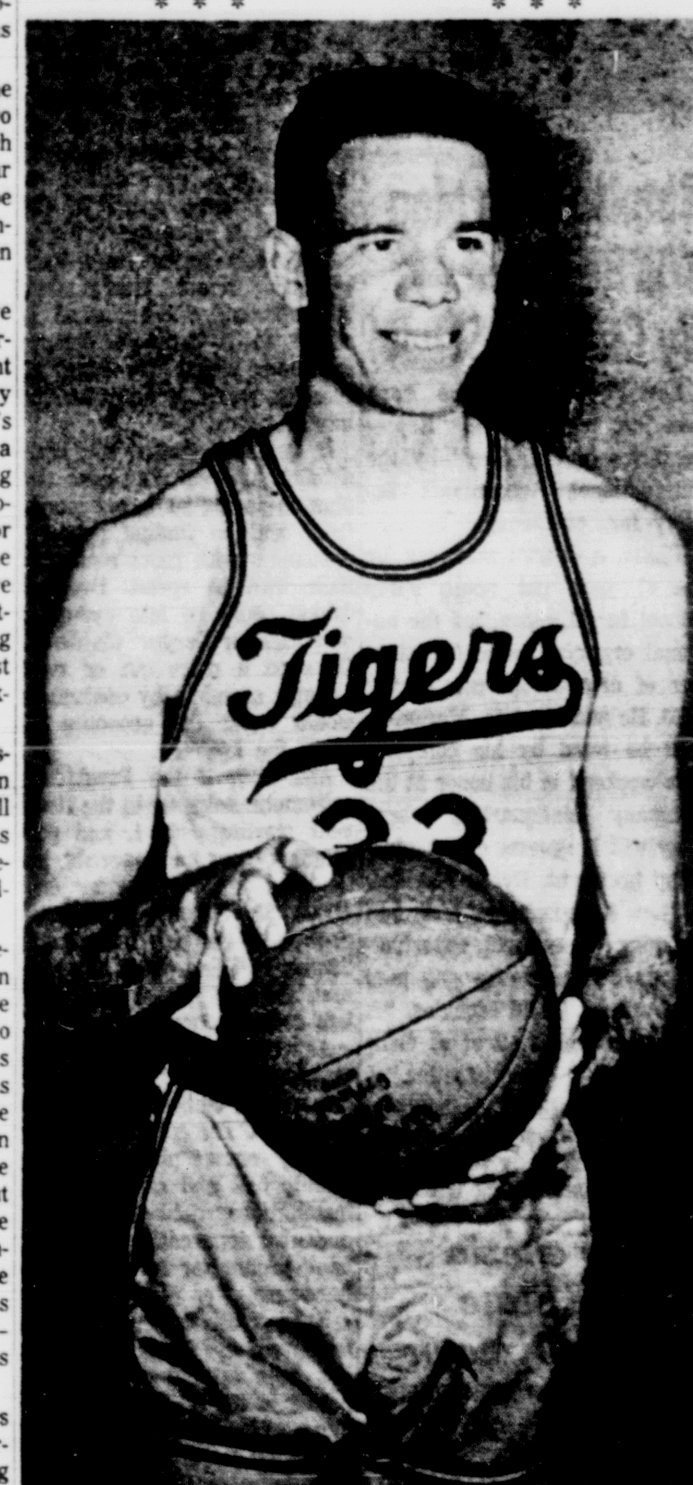

Wake Forest beat North Carolina 80-71. West Virginia nipped VMI 75-73 and Texas Tech downed Baylor 82-62 on Thursday night's slim program. None of the Top Ten teams saw action.

In other games Boston University edged Connecticut 55-53, Rhode Island took Holy Cross 80-77, Tulsa defeated North Texas 91-72, New Orleans Loyola whipped Memphis State 90-64, Virginia Tech upended Furman 75-65 and Florida socked Miami of Florida 114-91.

Pro Skiers Compete At Vail This Weekend

VALE, Colo. (UPI)—Professional skiers make their first appearance of the season this weekend in the North American pro championships at Vail Ski area.

The dual slalom is scheduled Saturday and the downhill Sunday. The racers will be competing for a $6,500 purse.

TIGERS' CAPTAIN—Bob Heiny, captain of this year's Colorado College team, will open at one of the forward positions tonight as the Tigers launch their home campaign and their final Rocky Mountain Conference schedule in an 8 p.m. contest against Adams State at City Auditorium. Heiny, the top returnee from last winter's team, leads the Tigers in scoring after two games. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Rosburg Records 66 in San Diego Tourney Open

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Golfer Bob Rosburg led the way into the second round of the $30,000 San Diego Open Friday — or did he?

Rosburg completed the first round with a four-under par 66, one stroke in front of National Open champion Julius Boros, Tony Lema and a newcomer to professional tournament attention, Charles Coody of Fort Worth, Tex.

But—30 golfers, stranded by darkness on the Rancho Bernardo Country Club course Thursday were set to complete their initial round early today. Included were at least three threats who could match or even outscore Rosburg. They are Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, Frank Beard, Louisville, Ky., each with nine hole scores of 33, and Dow Finsterwald, Colorado Springs, with a 34.

This trio, plus the others, faced the problem of a further delay since the weather has a habit at this time of the year of freezing the greens in the early morning hours.

They froze Thursday morning, causing an hour delay in the start, and the same was expected today, which could cause even more confusion.

There was no problem later in the day. The skies were bright, the temperature warm.

The Rancho Bernardo course, under fire for the first time in San Diego annals, apparently is none too easy. Only 20 players bettered par. A year ago, at another course and in cold, wet weather, 47 broke par.

Two shots under par were Tommy Bolt, George Knudson of Canada and Peter Butler, England's Professional Golfers Association champion who is making his American debut.

Arnold Palmer, who is a pre-tournament selection in almost any event he enters, hoped to rebound from an opening 73.

SAAB engineers don't take safety lightly. Don't you!

This SAAB was deliberately rolled down a Norwegian ski slope, with a man in it. It turned over 25 times, and the driver walked away. It proved that the SAAB body can take an awful beating. If it has to. A comforting fact to know, if you're inside.

The 1964 SAAB has:

- an almost uncrushable unitized body (thicker steel than most American cars),
- reinforced steel columns and pop-out windshield
- padded dash and sun visors
- collapsible steering wheel
- new extra-safe diagonal bracing system

SAAB engineers don't take safety lightly. That's why they build one of the world's safest cars. When you come in for a test drive, we'll be glad to show you why the 1964 SAAB is one of the world's safest buys.

Four PPL Loop Tilts Scheduled for Tonight

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Tom Gribben's torrid scoring cagers receive an acid test of their potential as Pikes Peak League challengers when the Florence squad leaves its home court haven to battle Widefield in Friday's key PPL encounter.

Other league games tonight find potent Harrison as guests of pesky Air Academy High.

Manitou journeys to Leadville, and the Indians of Cheyenne Mountain tangle with winless Fountain at the Trojans' gym. Meanwhile, the three-time PPL champions from Salida travel to Canon City for a non-league. Saturday's non-loop agenda calls for Academy High at Cherry Creek, Salida at Canon City Abbey, and Leadville at Del Norte.

Last weekend the Huskies established a total game scoring record when the Florence aggregation nearly hit the century mark in recording a 96-88 triumph over Fountain, which saw Sam Zamarripa toss in 34 points for what is believed to be the highest individual scoring effort in league competition. And this was a contest that also saw a 32-point scoring output by Fountain's Scott McCabe topped.

Pirates Host Tigers In DPL Competition

Can the Bucs do it?

Can Dan Wright's defending champs of the Denver Parochial League make a weekend sweep over two of the DPL's undefeated and highly rated teams — Holy Family and Machebeuf?

Wright rates Holy Family as the second team to beat behind Regis as the Tigers have height and experience. Some seven lettermen anchor the Tiger squad with 6-3 Steve Bailey, 6-0 Tom Stelmach (forwards), 6-0 Chris Kostuk, 5-5 Ken Milano (guards), and 6-3 Jim Callaway (center) gaining a starting berth in tonight's encounter. Kostuk was voted to the District Seven All-American second team last season.

In other DPL action tonight, 1962-63 titlist Annunciation entertains highly touted Regis. St. Joseph's takes on revamped Mt. Marmel, Mullen tangles with St. Francis, and Machebeuf meets Cathedral.

For the Pirates, Wright will call on his usual starters including guards Tom McCarthy and Joe Jezek, forwards David Grantz and Mike Conway, and Pfalmer at the pivot. The Bucs' tallest cager, 6-5 Ralph Layman, is slated to see action at the post.

Sunday's agenda calls for St. Mary's vs. Machebeuf, St. Francis at Annunciation—Cathedral at St. Joseph's, Mullen at Regis, and Mt. Carmel at Holy Family.

Regis, rated as top challengers to unseat the Pirates in the pennant chase this season, handed the Bucs their first loss last weekend to justify that rating. Although the local Parochial school came back strong to topple Mullen via the shooting and rebounding of Dick Pfalmer, the St. Mary's squad finds itself looking down the loaded guns of three unbeaten teams — Regis, Machebeuf, and tonight's opponent, Holy Family.

If the Pirates intend to remain in the pennant race for top honors, they must record wins tonight and Sunday.

Tigers Risk Win Skein Against North Dakota

GRAND FORKS, N. D.—Will the bubble burst for Colorado College tonight?

That's the question Coach Bob Johnson and his Tigers hope to answer in the negative when they take on the always potent Sioux of North Dakota University here in the Winter Sports Arena before an expected partisan crowd of 4,000.

al championship team of last season are goalie Joe Lech, winger George Chigol and defenseman Maurice Roberge, who will captain this winter's squad.

The leading goal-getters are expected to be Chigol and center Wayne Gurba, both from Flin Flon, Manitoba.

Coming off an eastern tour which has seen the team skate past five teams on the road and post six consecutive victories counting their last visit to Colorado Springs, the Tigers have the momentum to pull the surprise here if they aren't too weary from travel. CC had but one day's rest before tonight's game after playing five in six days.

If the Nodaks have a weakness this season it's on defense where they are experience shy. That, of course, is the same weakness of the Tigers, so it points to a high scoring affair in both games this weekend. The same teams go at it again Saturday night.

Bob's Bombers, stinging the nets at a 6.5 goals per game clip, have now recorded the longest winning streak of any team since the 1956-57 season when CC won 12 straight on the way to the NCAA title. But the last time the Tigers also took six in a row was during the 1959-60 season — and then they lost all the rest of their games.

Both have played only two league games to date, with North Dakota gaining a 1-1 tie and losing one to Denver in earlier games here. Colorado College split in its pair against Michigan State at Colorado Springs, winning the opener, 6-2, and then dropping the second game, 5-4, in sudden death overtime. These have been the only games played in the WCHA so far.

Western Collegiate Hockey Assn.

Minnesota	3	4	0	6	16
St. Cloud	2	5	0	4	16
Wisconsin	1	6	0	2	16
Illinois	0	7	0	0	16

So there's an omen to overcome here tonight as well as one of the toughest teams in the country to beat on their home ice. North Dakota returns 10 lettermen from their NCAA title squad of a year ago, although two only saw limited action, and because of the conditions here it's just short of impossible to whip the Sioux at home.

The Tigers "warmed up" for the temperatures that are liable to be prevalent here when they scored two victories over Ohio University at Athens, Ohio, Tuesday and Wednesday nights with the ice frozen naturally by near zero weather. Here, like at Ohio, the arena is open on the ends of the rinks and often the wind howls thru with icy blasts.

The shooting gets hot in league play this weekend, however, with two other counting contests on tap both tonight and Saturday night. The pre-season pick to win the title, will be at Michigan Tech, while Michigan visits Minnesota. The only other action will have Michigan State at Duluth, Minn., for a non-league get-together.

Allan Porter's Mustangs, after a week of inactivity, head west for an encounter with Leadville. The Panthers will be a worthy opponent for Manitou despite giving a height advantage to their guests.

Palmer and Conway has been the most consistent scorers on the Pirate squad with the latter lad pumping in 20 points against Mullen to hand the Mustangs their first home court loss in three years. But it was Palmer's team leadership and rebounding that enabled St. Mary's to hurdle the Mullen five. The 6-3 senior took a rough spill in that contest which resulted in seven stitches. But Pfalmer still maintained his supremacy of the boards to spearhead the impressive victory.

Against Regis, Pfalmer and Grantz were the only Pirates successful against the Raiders' defense. Pfalmer collected a dozen points and Grantz pumped in 11 to lead the St. Mary's scoring. However, Conway leads the team in scoring with 72 points in six games with Pfalmer second with 62, followed by McCarthy and Grantz with 51.

Following this weekend, the Tigers will return home for a game to benefit the Olympic hockey fund. On Jan. 18 CC will play the Colorado College Alumni at the Broadmoor World Arena. This will precede a Jan. 28 game for the same cause between the CC Alums and Denver Alumni at the World Arenas.

Current scoring figures show junior Bob Magie, center of the usual starting line, leading the Tigers with 20 points on eight goals and a dozen assists. Following him are Johnny Simus, Magie's linemate at wing, and center Roger Simon both with 17 points, while Warren Fordyce has 16 despite no playing in the first four games because of ineligibility.

Palmer returns to action in a 2 p.m. match at the Palmer Gymnasium Saturday against Fairview of Boulder.

Coach George Kalber lauded his team for an outstanding performance and said the T-Birds could easily have won with a couple of breaks. The Birds were forced into draws at both 133 and 138 on takedowns in the final second and Yogi Grandcourt was pinned at 165 with one second remaining.

POPULAR RENDEZVOUS—Only a few minutes away from anywhere in Colorado Springs, the Pikes Peak Ski Area has proved to be a popular rendezvous for high school skiers every Saturday and Sunday. ## Utags Seeking Revenge Against Falcon Five LOGAN, Utah—Barely rested from a schedule that has seen the Falcons play four of their last five games away from the Academy, the Air Force runs into what looks like an obvious ambush here tonight against a Utah State University quintet that undoubtedly has designs on revenge.

Utah State, among the nation's top 20 in total offense at an average of 88.9 points per contest, is led by the consistent shooting of center Troy Collier (55 per cent from the field), forward Wayne Estes (50 per cent) and guard Gary Watts (also over 50 per cent). Estes tops the scoring members of both squads from that memorable game of a season ago, including a couple of Aggies that have been boomed for All-America honors.

Still quite clear in the memory of the Utah cagers is that year's 66-65 upset by the Falcons in Colorado and they have no intention of letting that happen again. Back are several members of both squads from that memorable game of a season ago, including a couple of Aggies that have been boomed for All-America honors.

Utah State, among the nation's top 20 in total offense at an average of 88.9 points per contest, is led by the consistent shooting of center Troy Collier (55 per cent from the field), forward Wayne Estes (50 per cent) and guard Gary Watts (also over 50 per cent). Estes tops the scoring members of both squads from that memorable game of a season ago, including a couple of Aggies that have been boomed for All-America honors.

The task confronting the Falcons looms enormous in that Utah State has met and bested the likes of Arizona, Bradley, Ohio State and Utah in the last four home games. And it's unlikely that the smallest Cadets will be able to bust thru Utah's 18-game home court victory skein which extends back to December of 1962.

After tonight's contest, the Falcons fly on to Missoula, Mont., for a Saturday night game with Montana State University. The odds won't be as great against the Cadets there, but it's always difficult to win on the road.

Still the Falcons are noted for playing their best against the best, and although only one of their five wins in nine games so far has come on the road, they have been tough to handle at times.

So far the Grizzlies have a 7-4 record for the season, taking on some of the finest teams in the west. They have lost to Wichita, Houston, Seattle, and Brigham Young, while defeating such teams as Washington (twice), North Dakota and a few other regional schools.

That was shown in the finals of the annual Gator Bowl tournament when they dropped a narrow 74-68 decision to a strong Florida team in the final seconds after leading a goodly part of the way.

The game will mark the first appearance for an AFA team at Logan, and last year's contest was the initial dual between

Finley Reports Offer to Remain In Kansas City Five Years Rejected

CHICAGO (UPI) — Charles O. Finley said today his offer to keep his Athletics baseball team in Kansas City for a minimum of five years was rejected before he sought to move the franchise to Louisville.

Finley, in hot water with the rest of the American League because he has signed a contract to play in Kentucky in 1964 and 1965, said he has made and had rejected three offers to keep his team in Kansas City's Municipal Stadium.

The first, he said, would have been for four years "with no escape clause," the second for five years with "no escape clause," and the third for two years.

"The first two," he said, "they didn't regard as long term contracts."

Finley said that in the first two offers, the city would have had to rebate half his rent to equal against $411,000 which he spent to refurbish the stadium, but in the third, the $411,000 would have been absorbed by the Athletics.

"They didn't want to give me any options on the stadium," he said. "And it turns out that the lease we've been playing under had an escape clause in that the club could move at the end of any year it didn't draw $50,000."

"So we've been operating on a one-year contract, and they didn't want to take my four or five year offers."

Finley's application to move the club to Louisville will come after the American League at a special meeting called by President Joe Cronin on Jan. 16. Finley was confident he would get approval despite numerous

Winter Olympics Site Gets First Snow in Six Weeks

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Snow, the precious white stuff that is an absolute must for ski resorts and the Winter Olympics, began falling today.

Ordinarily that's not news in this winter wonderland, site of the Olympics starting Jan. 29. But this area hadn't seen any new snow in six weeks until the flakes started merrily down from the darkening clouds.

The huge collective sigh from Olympic officials and an army of soldiers and volunteer workers must have seemed like an earthquake in nearby areas.

Before the snow fell, Prof. Friedl Wolfgang, head of the organizing committee, sniffed the air and said: "I believe I smell snow."

His nose knew. Prof. Wolfgang, taking no chances, has had some 2,200 soldiers trucking snow into the area for the past few days.

Bud Werner Leads U.S. Ski Team

WENGEN, Switzerland (UPI)—The United States continued its hectic training schedule for the Winter Olympics with four top skiers taking part in the Lauberhorn Alpine races today.

Bud Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., who missed the 1960 Olympics because of a broken leg, has been in good form this season and was expected to be among the leaders in the field of 90.

Joining Werner for the U.S. were Jim Huega of Tahoe City, Calif., Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., and Chuck Ferries of Houghton, Mich.

A giant slalom was scheduled Friday, but it will not count towards the Alpine combined title of this meet. A second giant slalom will be run Saturday and the regular slalom on Sunday.

The downhill race and a third slalom have been cancelled because of a lack of snow.

Austria and France were rated the top contenders for the team title in this major preparation for the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, Jan. 29-Feb. 9.

Jack Riley of Army, coach of the U. S. hockey team in the 1960 Olympics, is in his 14th season as coach of the West Point sextet.

Winter Olympics Site Gets First Snow in Six Weeks

Three of the slalom runs were held in an armor of ice because firemen had squirted water on the ground.

The Lizum Valley looked like a vast construction site. Two companies of the 21st Mountain Infantry Battalion, hand-picked skiers and mountaineers, have been busy moving snow from other areas to the ski runs with baskets, shovels, wheelbarrows, and heavy American trucks and bulldozers.

The Olympic ski runs had been closed temporarily while the workers were busy preparing the courses.

Then the snow came and work ceased temporarily. If nature takes over, the courses may be opened soon and the empty hotels will get a fresh flow of customers.

Sugar Ramos Meets Derado Tonite in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Featherweight champion Sugar Ramos may desert his division if he beats lightweight Vicente Derado in a nontitle 10-round nationally televised fight tonight.

The 21-year-old undefeated champion is having weight problems and believes he can whip lightweight king Carlos Ortiz.

After tonight's scrap, Ramos travels to Tokyo to defend his title against Mitsunori Seki March 1.

Depending on the result of tonight's encounter with the rugged Derado, Ramos may then seek a title bout with Ortiz.

But Ramos may get caught looking beyond Derado. The 26-year-old Argentinian boasts a record of 65 wins and 14 losses in a seven year career. The oddsmakers still like the champion and have installed Ramos as a 2 to 1 favorite. Their reasoning is based on Ramos' imposing record of 45 wins, including 33 knockouts, and only two draws. He packs a wallop in either hand and can take a punch. Ramos fights with a cold detachment, stalking his opponent continually and carrying the fight to him.

AFL Completes Selections For Star Teams

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Team selection has been completed for the East and West squads in the American Football League all star game Jan. 19 in Balboa Stadium.

East coach Mike Holovak took guard Billy Neighbors, tackle Charlie Long, end Gino Cappelletti, quarterback Babe Parilli and defensive back Ron Hall from his Boston Patriot team to join five others from the team chosen earlier by players, coaches and front offices.

Holovak's other choices were New York halfback Billy Mathis and Buffalo linebacker Mike Stratton. Houston's defensive tackle Ed Humann will replace injured Houston Antwine of Boston.

Sid Gillman rounded out his 29-man West squad by naming tackle Ernie Wright, halfback Paul Lowe and linebacker Chuck Allen to join seven others from San Diego Chargers selected previously, and then added Kansas City defensive end Duane Wood, Denver linebacker Jim Fraser and Oakland's Cotton Davidson and rookie defensive tackle Dave Costa.

Linebacker Walt Corey will replace his injured Kansas City teammate, E. J. Holub.

Rematch Scheduled For Cagers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Los Angeles Lakers and New York's Knicks square off on a neutral court in San Diego Saturday just three nights after a wild brawl punctuated their National Basketball Association game.

Four players were tossed out of Wednesday night's contest following a fight which lasted about six minutes.

The Lakers were idle Thursday night while the Knicks were losing to San Francisco 112-97. No incidents marred the game although Wilt Chamberlain and Wayne Hightower did as far as New York was concerned.

Chamberlain poured 43 points through the basket. Hightower flipped in two field goals that ended a San Francisco cold streak in the first half which included just one field goal in 10 minutes. The Warriors then rushed to a nine-point margin at the half.

Detroit, behind Bailey Howell, whipped Baltimore 125-115 for the Pistons' first victory in five games against the Bullets. Howell scored 35 points, 20 in a big third-quarter surge.

Detroit, last in the league's Western Division, now trails fourth-place Baltimore by 1 1/2 games.

Ironman John Kerr's 34 points paced the Philadelphia 76ers as they downed St. Louis 122-115. The 76ers rallied from a 14-point first-half deficit in snapping the Hawks' three-game win streak. Kerr tallied 24 of his points in the second half comeback.

NY Wins Fourth Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
For the first time in five years the New York Rangers have a four-game winning streak in the National Hockey League and they deny emphatically that they intend to trade star winger Andy Bathgate.

At almost the same time that the Rangers whipped the Bruins 5-3 at Boston Thursday night, Muzz Patric, vice president and general manager, said in New York that the "management of the Rangers has no deals pending at this time involving the trading of Andy Bathgate or any other players on its current roster."

Virtually overlooked in the furor over the Bathgate trade rumor was the 5-3 victory of the Detroit Red Wings over the slumping first place Chicago Black Hawks in Thursday's other scheduled NHL game.

The Bathgate incident followed published reports in the Toronto Star and the New York Journal-American.

Goalie Jacques Plante came up with 46 saves and Phil Goyette contributed three assists as the Rangers beat Boston for their longest winning streak since November 1958.

The victory kept the Rangers within five points of Detroit and the last playoff spot. Playing on home ice the Red Wings beat the Black Hawks as Larry Jeffrey led the attack with two goals.

The Hawks now have lost three of their last four games and lead Toronto and Montreal, tied for second, by only three points, 49 to 46. Detroit has 35, New York 30 and Boston 22.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER
© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD — Director King Vidor took a long vacation after "Solomon and Sheba," but he wasn't resting. He has three scripts ready to shoot. The first, "A Man Called Cervantes," will be done in Spain and England. Vidor says it's a marvelous adventure yarn about the author of "Don Quixote" and would be perfect for Tony Curtis. After "Cervantes," Vidor does Nathaniel Hawthorne's story, "Marble Faun," in Rome; following that "Turn in the Road," which takes place in Colorado. Remember it was King who gave us that great war picture, "The Big Parade."

We lost John Huston to Ireland, but they gave us Steve Boyd. I don't know which country got the edge on that one, but if Boyd doesn't come out of his Palm Springs hideaway and show his face around town, we'll start calling him the vanishing American. You could never say that of Huston.

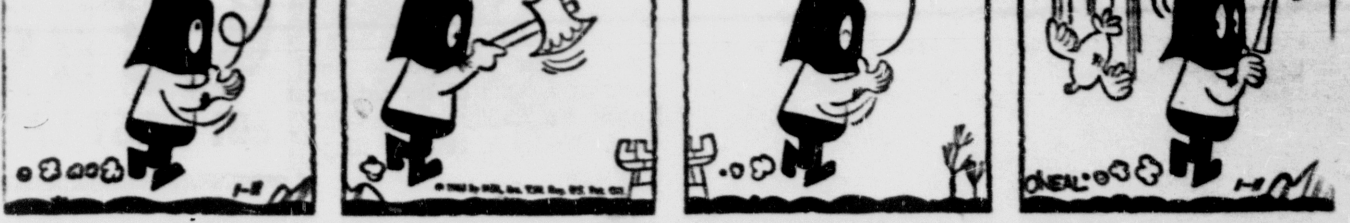

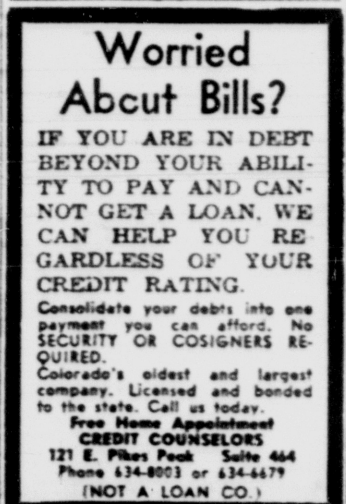

Mae West meets Mister Ed today on a show that will be aired in a month. She may finally poor Ed, but it could be a beginning for Mae. Producer Arthur Lubin says if she likes TV and vice-versa, she's agreed to star next fall in her own series. Mae West, Private Detective. She'll be decked out in a new upswept hair-do for the talking horse. Lubin returned from a vacation in Puerto Lizarda, Mexico. Got a glimpse of Liz walking along the waterfront with her girls. As he left the airport, he overheard a clerk say, "Here's a package for Liz—rush it over to her."

Bill Holden has said many times he won't do a picture in Hollywood, but there's an awful lot of talk that he'll be in Sam Spiegel's "Chase," to be shot here. In fact, he's having meetings about it in London now.

Paula Prentiss checked with M-G-M (they had nothing for her as usual), then told Universal she'll do a month's tour to promote her picture with Rock Hudson, "Man's Favorite Sport."

"Well," he said, "I'm too old to retire."

He plays a matinee idol who refuses to play a father in revue's pilot '90 Bristol Terrace' sort of a grand hotel of apartments. Ilka Chase is here to play Charlie's old flame in the show. She got the title for her latest book while staying at the Treeton Inn in Kenya, Africa. Daily at tea time, the elephants came to a little watering hole near the inn. When she saw them coming thru the trees, she glanced at her watch and said, "The elephants arrive at 5:30."

U.S. Commies Want to Run Candidates

NEW YORK (AP)—The Communist party, U.S.A., announced Wednesday it is writing to officials of the 50 states for information pertinent to "placing Communist candidates on the ballot."

Letters were sent by the party's public relations director, Arnold Johnson, to secretaries of state and attorneys general in each state. They seek information on election laws in general and specific laws, if any, applying to the rights of Communist candidates to appear on the ballot or of voters to write in the names of such candidates.

RED CARPET TREATMENT KING - OF - PRUSSIA, Pa. (AP) — A local retired man satisfied a long-time yearning packed his belongings into a trailer, and traveled to California, growing a beard en route. Shortly after his arrival, he took his car to a garage for servicing and found himself the subject of "red carpet treatment."

The mystery was solved when he saw one garage attendant furtively pointing out the name and address attached to the steering column of his car, as required in California. The label read: Wesley S. Holmes, King-of-Prussia.

FREIGHT EXPEDITING

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—A $12 million clearance improvement program by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has eliminated 54 tunnel, bridge and other structural restrictions that made it impossible to send massive freight equipment through Allegheny Mountain tunnels between Clarksburg and Parkersburg, W. ## Street in Tunisia Named for Kennedy

CARTHAGE, Tunisia (AP)—A crowd of Tunisians cheered Tuesday when a street of this ancient town was named after the late President John F. Kennedy.

The Rue Eshmoun, the Punic god of help and rescue, became Rue Kennedy in a brief ceremony at which cultural minister Chedly Klibi presided. The Rue Kennedy is several hundred yards from Roman excavations in this historic town, now a residential suburb 10 miles from Tunis. It is lined with modernistic villas, including the residence of the American ambassador.
